Seattle stations

QCTV announces two new channels

QCTV has announced the switch to two Seattle networks.

Beginning in March channels KING and KOMO from Seattle will be added to the cable line-up replacing two Detroit channels.

"The channel changes started in December and all our regional systems were to include these two networks," said Brad Trumble, director of programming for QCTV.

"But signal quality was such that the channels were unacceptable for distribution. These problems have been solved by Cancom (Canadian Satellite Communications Inc.) and we're moving ahead with installation," Trumble added.

The new Seattle networks ABC (KOMO) and NBC (KING) will replace the ABC and NBC networks currently received from Detroit.

The change to Seattle networks is expected to be completed by mid-March. The time is needed to prepare equipment and provide local TV listing sources with needed information.

The Seattle networks are in the west coast time zone. This change now means subscribers have access to programming from eastern and western time zones.

Ranchers fighting sour gas emissions

By Steve Fletcher

A dispute between Petro-Canada and Brazeau area ranchers was left unresolved after an informal meeting between the two groups, the ERCB, and Alberta Environment last week in Drayton Valley.

Petro-Canada and the ranchers agreed to meet privately in hopes of avoiding a public meeting on the issue at a later date.

The ranchers want sulphur emissions at the oil company's Brazeau River sour gas plant reduced before plans to triple the size of the facility are approved by the ERCB.

ERCB chairman Gerry DeSorcy was on hand to act as an intermediary at the meeting.

Ranchers' spokesman Rob MacIntosh told the meeting that sour gas emissions in the region, along with the two blowouts in 1977 and 1982, have led to increased acidity in a soil which was already "pretty marginal."

While the impact of sulphur emissions on agriculture is yet to be fully known, MacIntosh noted that "certain crops are not doing as well as they should be."

He stressed the ranchers were not seeking to kill the plans for expansion, but were only after improved sulphur recovery.

"We would like to see this project go ahead...we're struggling to have a solution allowing both industries to work side by side."

However, Petro-Canada facilities engineering manager Michael Bunyan pointed out current recovery standards already average 98.5.

He called the oil company's performance in this regard "exemplary," and added that implementing technology permitting the best sulphur recovery possible would not be economically feasible.

"To go from 98.5 per cent to 99 per cent would cost about $5,000 a tonne — sulphur is currently selling at about $80 a tonne."

Bunyan said this would represent a -20 per cent rate of return on the investment.

"The economics are against it, and I also feel there is no demonstrated need to recover at levels higher than we are already recovering.

At the same time, Petro-Canada's plant expansion is expected to bring approximately $10 million into the local economy, Bunyan pointed out.

Both MacIntosh and Bunyan disagreed about the conclusions of a study on the effects of sulphur on agriculture.

MacIntosh claimed farms in the Brazeau area are not comparable to the farms subjected to the study because of "the additional loading due to sour gas blowouts, the poor soil and the types of crops."

Rancher Lee Nail told the meeting that he has noticed a considerable decline in his ranch's productivity over the past year.

"The cow/calf population has gone from one-per-cent under 400 pounds to 60-per-cent under 400 pounds."

Bunyan admitted that a soil chemical analysis on agricultural land has yet to be carried out.

The ERCB is currently re-evaluating its sulphur recovery guidelines. A report is expected within the next two months.

Both sides agreed that studies on the area at issue were in order, given the high level of sour gas activity in both the Brazeau and in the surrounding region.

The Edmonton weather office is predicting an end to the chilly temperatures later this week.

Tuesday will be mostly cloudy with highs of -24 C and lows near -30 C.

Wednesday will be much the same with a 40 per cent chance of flurries. Highs of -16 C and lows of -28 C are forecast.

Thursday should be warmer with highs edging to -8 C and lows near -12 C.

Tkachuk says

School system has potential for problems

By Steve Fletcher

A new school system based in Drayton Valley could face money problems over the long term, contends County of Parkland Superintendent of Schools Marv Tkachuk.

He believes a smaller school system would be less capable of withstanding financial pressures.

"In a smaller district, and you have four healthy schools here, there are also four small schools that are more difficult to operate.

"The mathematics say to me that it's going to be harder on the four urban schools," speculated Tkachuk, who was a guest speaker at last week's Eldorado school parent association meeting.

Alberta Education officials, in a recent study of the effects of a new municipality in the area, concluded that a school system centred in Drayton Valley should be implemented.

The new system would take in 17 per cent of the County of Parkland's student population.

Tkachuk, who admitted he would prefer Drayton Valley remain within the county school system, also said a new district would inherit the debt attached to recent renovations at a number of local schools.

"Some resources would be divided, but so does the debt split up," he said.

The county hasn't started paying for the Evergreen school renovations, nor has the last portion of renovations to H.W. Pickup been paid for.

Marv Tkachuk, superintendent of schools

March 1 vote

Tkachuk emphasized to all parents they vote in the upcoming plebiscite on the issue, set for March 1.

"That decision (on establishing a district) is going to affect the education of youngsters in this community for a long period of time," he said.

Residents of Drayton Valley will be voting on whether they wish a new school system in the area.

However, residents of outlying areas will be asked to vote on two questions: whether they wish a Drayton Valley school district be formed, and whether they want to be a part of ID 222.

Petition circulated

Group wants public kindergarten in town

Kathy Lemishka would like to see a public kindergarten operating in Drayton Valley.

She's not fussy if it's operated by the County of Parkland or Improvement District 222.

Last week Lemishka spoke with County of Parkland School Superintendent Marv Tkachuk during a meeting at the Eldorado school.

"He told us if we get enough names they would consider it. We have to show there's just cause," Lemishka said.

In an effort to get support, petitions are circulating in the area. They can be signed at the Violet Grove, Lodgepole and Rocky Rapids stores, Easyford playschool, Cynthia Hotel, DV Happy Day Care and the Drayton Valley Kindergarten.

At the present time there are three kindergartens in Drayton Valley, one private, another operating out of a church and another at St. Anthony's school.

One of the biggest benefits of a public kindergarten would be busing.

There is a matter of urgency in getting the petitions signed. Lemishka wants to have it completed and sent to the County of Parkland before the school vote is taken March 1.

"We have to show them we're here. And we don't want to be put on the back burner," Lemishka added.

Lemishka and her group are hoping that either the County of Parkland or ID 222 will introduce a public kindergarten next term.

The petition organizer also made it clear they weren't trying to shut down the existing kindergarten. They just want to give the people a choice.

Will assess needs

Parkland hints at operating kindergarten

By Steve Fletcher

The County of Parkland Board of Education could be operating a kindergarten in Drayton Valley in the near future.

Speaking to the Eldorado School Parent Association last week, Superintendent of Schools Marv Tkachuk said a public Early Childhood Services (ECS) program could be available as early as next fall.

But he stressed the county would not 'compete with viable private sector organizations.

"In the case of Eldorado, we have a viable private program," said Tkachuk. "But at the same time we are seeing declining numbers in the program."

He added that the board of education makes a regular assessment of needs for ECS in the county.

"Drayton Valley is the only major centre in the county where we are not operating ECS programs," noted Tkachuk.

Local school board trustee Cecil Dawkins, who also attended the meeting, said he would probably support the formation of a public kindergarten if the issue arose at a board meeting.

"What attitude do I take?" he said. "You and I are paying some small portion of taxes to pay for kindergartens around the county.

"I feel I would only be just to the taxpayers in this town if I say 'yes' to this proposal."

There are currently two privately-run kindergartens in Drayton Valley.

Questions decided

The two questions to be asked March 1 in relationship to the new ID have been officially announced.

The entire area will vote on the school question while only the areas in the school study will cast a 'yes' or 'no' vote on a municipal question.

The education question is: Do you want a new school district?

And the municipal question is: Do you want to be annexed to the existing ID 222 which will be incorporated as an MD (municipal district) in the near future?

Polling stations will be set up throughout the affected areas and ballots will be simple 'yes' or 'no' answer.

Tomahawk angry over new district

Many residents of the Tomahawk area are MAD.

They haven't been properly informed about the formation of Improvement District 222 or the school issues.

And, they have every right to be MAD.

If they're looking for someone to blame, they might start with the provincial government.

They're the ones to blame for not keeping the people properly informed about all the issues in the ID, MD and new county issue.

True, reports were made available, but how many people are going to wade through pages of information?

The initial Drayton Valley municipal feasibility main report numbered over 200 pages. A summary report had 84 pages.

The Drayton Valley Education Review Committee report was another thick volume of statistics and graphs while the summary report was less than 10 pages.

However, in both cases, no attempt was made to get the proper information out to the people.

People in Tomahawk, like those in Lindale, Breton, Buck Lake and Alder Flats are very concerned about their children's education.

It was obvious at a recent meeting in Tomahawk, called by MLA Shirley Cripps, that the people didn't know all the issues, or the answers.

With a plebiscite scheduled for next month on a school and municipal question, is it too much to ask the government to inform the people, so they know all the issues and the consequences, before voting.

What do you think of the nurses' strike?

"I don't think they should strike. This is an essential service. It puts a lot of people in jeopardy."

David VanDamme
Tomahawk

"It's no good. Sick people need all the care they can get. They make plenty of money now."

Terry Berstad
Drayton Valley

"Well that depends. I think there should be some kind of rules and regulations to look after these problems nurses may be facing."

Helen Zaniewicz
Drayton Valley

"I don't like to see anybody striking, there's got to be a better system. But I do believe the nurses should have some recourse."

Glenn Salzl
Drayton Valley

"Well, I think the nurses deserve more. The dispute really isn't over money, it's the ratio of staff to patients. I think nurses are under-staffed."

As stamps' price rise

MPs' postage costs paid by taxpayers...

Canada Post never ceases to amaze me.

Despite their up and down service, they continue to up the price of stamps.

One of the reasons Canada Post may have to increase our costs, could be to cover the costs of those who don't pay to send their mail.

A Christmas card from Yellowhead MP Joe Clark didn't include any postage.

As we understand it, if any MP sends out mail that includes the House of Commons stamp, it goes postage-free. And, if you send a letter to your MP and include the House of Commons on it, that would also go postage free.

We attempted to find out how many Christmas cards Clark had sent out, but the lady in his Ottawa office wasn't saying.

You can bet it was in the hundreds. Multiply that by all the MPs at the current postage rate and it would've meant more money in the Canada Post coffers.

By the way, we also received a Christmas card from Liberal leader John Turner and postage on that envelope was 17.5 cents.

Besides getting our dander up over his postage-free Christmas card, Clark's letter was addressed to Stuart Adams, Editor, Western Review.

I might have to send a letter to our MP, and of course, I'll include the House of Commons stamp on the envelope.

When the town decides on the final plans for the new arena, it might be a good idea to put the players' boxes on one side and seating on the other.

The reason...is all the swearing that comes from the players and coaching staff. And, it's not just the boys. During a recent girls' hockey tourney, we were astounded at the gals' language.

Freezing firefighters appreciative of hot coffee

Dear Editor,

Hats off to the Editor!

Fire can be an awesome foe, it can scare the hell out of the best of us, and it can tear your heart out to see a home and a lifetime of momentos go up in smoke.

Such was the case for the home of George and Vivian Getzinger on Sat., Jan. 23.

To make fighting the fire worse the mercury dipped to minus 25 c. and a driving wind sent the temperature plummetting even lower. An attack line (shut down momentarily to assess the situation) froze up. Water soaked mitts and gloves soon became blocks of ice, and all around the location you could see firefighters with gobbs of ice (condensation from your own breath) hanging from our moustaches.

Letters

And just when we felt the world had forgotten us, Frank Ryan (the Editor of the Western Review) arrived on the location with hot coffee for all the firefighters. Now hot coffee might not seem like much but to hold a cup of it in your almost frozen hands (the heat from it so intense it almost burns) gradually the warmth penetrates deeper and deeper into your fingers and hands, and to hold it up to your face and inhale the warm vapors is truly a warming feeling.

Not just once did Frank Ryan bring hot coffee but again later that afternoon he brought more. So on behalf of all the fire fighters on the scene that day I would like to express to Frank Ryan a sincere and heart felt thank you.

Production brings culture to town

Dear Editor,

I would like to commend the cast of Fiddler on the Roof, which played to a full house on Saturday night, for the very excellent performance.

Comparing it to the costly Hollywood production I thought it much better. The characters were well cast and each knew his part very well. Besides this they were also the 'set changers.' This was done in the dark with a minimum of movement.

Anyone who missed this production is the poorer for it. I have not seen such excellent performing even in New York on stage!

It brought a little culture to our town which seems overloaded with sports.

Sincerely,
Marion Palmer

New division or remain with county?

Residents will have to make a big decision next month.

On March 1, residents of Drayton Valley and area will be asked to vote on whether they want a new school division or remain with the County of Parkland. Residents of Tomahawk, Moon Lake, Lindale, Breton, Buck Lake and Alder Flats will also have to vote on a municipal issue.

The exact wording of the two questions hasn't been made public.

Does the lack of information on the new ID or the school issue concern you?

If you'd like to comment on the situation, send a letter (signed) to The Editor, Western Review, PO Box 120, Drayton Valley, AB T0E 0M0.

Program coordinator

New job broadens outlook

By Starg Hrasky

Every year a leadership program is presented to the teenagers of the county.

To coordinate the program a person must have leadership qualities and Andrew Bachleder, as the teen leadership coordinator has the skills.

Through his experience as students union president, and taking the leadership program when it first was offered in his high school days, Bachleder has learned to deal with people.

"I thought it would help me so I took the courses. Level I was only offered, so I took music, drama and program in Grade 12," said Bachleder.

Starting on Jan. 21 Bachleder has found he has a lot of work to do.

"We're using more local people to teach the classes. They're really good resource people and I'm looking forward to working with them," he said.

Designing posters, brochures and finding resource people to educate students are just a few of the aspects of his job.

Bachleder also has to coordinate with the eastern county (they have the same program), contact the schools, book the rooms and be at all the classes, but most of all he has to get the students' awareness of the courses and encourage them to join.

"Communication, programming and the rest of the courses offered will enrich their lives. It's not just something for recreation, it will help throughout their life," stated Bachleder.

"The three main areas the program will help with is job hunting, developing communication and leadership skills, summer employment and volunteer work.

"All the work coordinators have done in the past three years has helped a lot because I can look back in the reports and find out what worked and what didn't."

Bachleder found the job instantly appealing.

"It's something I've never done before. It's broadening my outlook on life.

"It is a challenge to get everything organized and I like people," he said.

The program is over in April and Bachleder's last day on the job is April 29.

"This job is perfect because in the summer I'll be going on a two-year mission for my church. What I'll be doing here will help me a lot with teaching the people about the church. It's perfect timing."

Bachleder will be going anywhere around the world for the Morman Church to teach others.

But right now Bachleder is working hard coordinating the program.

"I'm really enjoying this job."

Andrew Bachleder

'Coping due to no real disasters'

Drayton Valley hospital executive director Jim Jansen said last Friday that "fuses are getting fairly short" as nurses across the province enter their third week on the picket line.

"We're coping, but I think we're coping because we haven't had any real disasters so far."

He added that nurses have returned to work to help out during emergency situations.

Negotiators for the Alberta Hospital Association rejected the lastest nurses' proposal last week but returned to the bargaining table on Saturday.

Meanwhile, the United Nurses Association has refused to pay a $250,000 fine for criminal contempt of court despite the possibility that all its assets will be seized this week.

The UNA plans on appealing the conviction.

The AHA has also launched a civil contempt action against the nurses. About 100, selected at random across the province, face court appearances. The suit was launched on the advice of the labor relations board.

Local UNA president Gurmit Saran said the civil contempt charges were all laid against nurses from major hospitals.

As for the criminal contempt conviction, she said: "We knew it was going to come out, but we didn't know it was going to be that heavy."

The local chapter has printed one-page pamphlets, circulated around town last week, to "make the public aware of what the issues are," added Saran.

She stressed that it may be up to the public "to put the pressure on" the AHA or the government to return to the bargaining table and reach a settlement.

Employee of the month honored

Dave Malone of Brandette Well Service has been named the chamber of commerce's first Employee of the Month.

Selection was based on a points system following interviews of workers in the industry by a chamber committee.

Chamber director Don Regenwetter says many people earned a lot of points, but Malone received the most.

Malone said he was honored to be selected by his peers, adding that it's nice to know people in town appreciate what he does.

A native of Ottawa, Malone headed west in 1973 and started work in the oil patch as a roughneck. He moved to Brandette 7½ years ago.

Regenwetter said many of those the committee interviewed expressed the view that Malone "is not afraid to pick up a pipe wrench and work on the rig, or come into the office with his dress clothes on and visit."

The chamber will announce another top employee, from a different sector of work, next month.

Mall design started

Architects are working on a design for a new mall in Breton.

Dave Ellis and Brian Impey, both long time residents of the Breton area, are the developers.

"It's still in the planning stages," Ellis told The Western Review last week.

The developers are looking at either a closed or strip mall on Breton's main street.

The 7,200 square-foot mall will have room for seven or eight stores. Ellis says four established business in Breton have indicated they will go into the mall along with a new 1,500 square-foot convenience store and a 1,000 square-foot clothing store.

The cost of the new mall is expected to be between $300,000 and a half million dollars.

Ellis says comments from the community have been very positive.

The developers are hoping to have the new mall up and operating this summer or early fall.

Community angry over new school boundries

By Frank Ryan

If there is strength in unity the community of Tomahawk is determined to find out.

In an effort to get their questions answered on the formation of ID 222 and the effects it will have on their children's education, the District of Tomahawk Ratepayers Association has been formed.

Wayne Gent, a Tomahawk area dairy farmer is chairman of the new association. Frank Gilbert is vice-chairman.

During the fall of '86 a plebiscite was held to decide the issue of having a municipal area for Drayton Valley.

Many areas voted yes while some, including Tomahawk, on the fringes of the proposed municipal boundaries, voted against inclusion.

On Jan. 1 Alberta Municipal Affairs formed a boundary line and declared it ID 222.

To the consternation of the Tomahawk community, the line was drawn to virtually divide the community in half.

The complication of school attendance areas then surfaced.

Presently, all local high school students attend Drayton Valley high school. Should ID 222 form a local school board the parents in the Tomahawk area want the right of their children to attend Drayton Valley protected under any subsequent governing body within the ID boundaries, regardless of their vote on municipal issues.

"It is like part of your city or town wanting self government, holding a plebiscite, and then driving the block where your house is as the boundary line. Suppose your block voted one way and now must have the other half reconsider?" said Gent.

"Once they draw the line you find your kids may be forced to move to another school, while you and your neighbor will be put in the unnecessary position of simple issues such as who will haul and pay for the garbage removal," Gent added.

"It must remain a rival and personal rights issue where we have the right to remain a community with proper school facilities. We are preparing to fight for our rights," he concluded.

The new association, that signed up 50 members at their first meeting, have formed an ethics committee who will investigate suggestions of impropriety during the whole formation period. Their report is expected this week.

Eldorado school

Right site or not

County of Parkland has slated 1991 92 for the modernization of Eldorado elementary school.

In the meantime, some minor work is also on the books, says Mary Tkachuk, the county's superintendent of schools.

Speaking at last week's meeting of the Eldorado Parent Association, Tkachuk said the board of education plans on sprucing up the school's playground and on adding one or two portables this summer.

The county also carried out emergency work on the school's gymnasium last fall.

The planned modernization could mean a number of changes take place at the school, including a new location altogether.

Tkachuk said officials may conclude that a starter school in another area of town is in order.

"The very busy intersection would definitely be taken into consideration during the final decision," he added.

The superintendent noted two reasons as to why no major work is planned before 1991.

He said the school has a "relatively sound building" and there is also "some uncertainty as to whether this site is the right site."

Tkachuk also said Eldorado is about 92 per cent utilized right now.

Racer finds challenge in icy maneuvers

By Steve Fletcher

Many winter worn drivers can't stomach the slipping and sliding customary of roads at this time of year.

Mike Bennett spends his weekends pursuing them as a hobby.

A fanatic for all types of motor sports, Bennett has recently returned to ice racing and is experienced enough behind the wheel to give other competitors a run for their money.

The Drayton Valley car dealer is considered a worthy candidate to win the total points standings in the Black Gold Ice Racing Challenge when it completes its season March 6.

"Most of the time you're into some kind of controlled slide," says Bennett, who first started racing over ice in 1981.

Ice racers, like their counterparts who prefer driving on man made road surfaces, have to be exceptionally competent drivers.

"It requires a lot of car control, but it's a lot of fun," he noted.

Bennett was drawn to the vocation in the early 1980s because he found it to be a relatively inexpensive way to participate in a motor sport.

He spent three years racing in Calgary meets before taking a hiatus. In 1986, Bennett returned to ice racing with the Black Gold challenge, an event sanctioned by the Northern Alberta Sports Car Club.

Comprised of a series of five races, the Black Gold challenge takes place on Big Island Lake near Sherwood Park.

Bennett's vehicle, a Plymouth Turismo with a Chrysler New Yorker turbocharged 2.2 litre engine, has already proven it can handle itself on the circuit.

In his most recent outing, Bennett took two firsts out of the four races he entered.

The course at Big Island Lake is approximately a mile and a quarter. And with as many as 28 vehicles vying to get across the finish line first, Bennett says there's "a real incentive" to get ahead early and avoid the usual shroud of blowing snow.

"The main problem is visibility. When it's really, really cold out it's even more of a problem because the cold weather helps ice crystals to stay in the air."

Despite these hazards, racers usually manage to build up speeds of 85-90 mph along the straight aways.

Mike Bennett with his Plymouth Turismo ice racer

"It can be a lot faster than you think," Bennett says. "Because the surface is very rough, you don't get bad traction at all."

Nevertheless, ice racing officials have recently cracked down on the propensity of some drivers to bump and grind their way to the end of a race.

Bennett noted new rules allow officials to penalize racers who come in contact with each other if it's deemed to be "the slightest bit intentional."

The former provincial autocross champion admits his love of motor sports is "a kind of addiction."

After the final race of the Black Gold challenge, Bennett will again turn his attention to the upcoming go kart season — a new obsession of his.

His says his go karting prowess doesn't yet match the skills of veteran racers, but he's enjoying it just the same.

"Anytime you can beat a few of them it's pretty good," he says.

Flett leaves

The future of the Bill Flett charity golf tournament is on hold since the former NHL player has left town for a job in Edmonton. Flett, shown here, was instrumental in getting many of the big names in sport to attend the event.

Cowboys bound for Calgary

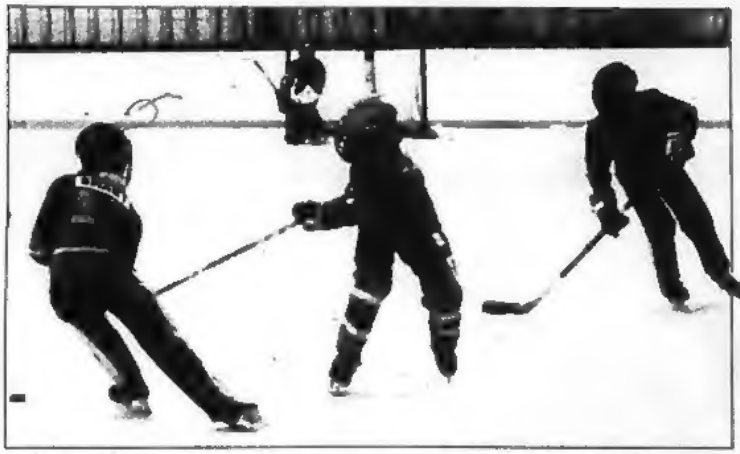
Visitors to the Winter Olympics will get a preview of the world famous Calgary Stampede when North America's top professional rodeo contestants meet Feb. 22 to 27 for the Calgary Stampede rodeo '88 challenge cup.

Presented by the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede, rodeo '88 will feature competition between the top three Canadians and the top three Americans in saddle bronc riding, bareback, bull riding, calf roping, steer wrestling and ladies barrel racing.

At stake — Olympic festival gold, silver and bronze medals, gold and silver championship trophy buckles and almost $100,000 in prize money.

The Canadian contingent will be led by current Canadian champions Guy Shapka, Robin Burwash, Guy Johansen, Mark Nugent, Greg Cassidy and Ruth McDougall. World champion Clint Johnson, Bruce Ford, Lane Frost, Joe Beaver, Steve Dubon and Charmayne James will head the U.S. contingent.

Clayton Hines of Drayton Valley, who placed third in saddle bronc at the most recent Canadian finals, will also be participating.



DV Meter atoms took it to Hinton on the weekend, and are off to second round provincials in Stony Plain.

With weekend wins

Rangers clinch first

Pile Base pee wee Rangers clinched first place in their league over the weekend with a pair of wins.

Playing on home ice Saturday, the Rangers downed visiting Red Deer Fas Gas Oilers 9-3 then skated into Rocky Mountain House on Sunday and registered a 9-4 decision.

The win on Sunday clinched the league pennant for the Rangers ahead of Rocky and Ponoka. The Rangers have two league games left, a double-header at home this Sunday against Alix.

Chris Enyedy had three goals in the win over Red Deer and he missed another on a penalty shot. Kent McKechnie, Bryson Kozek, Shelby Jorgenson, Todd Maclure, Jason Powell and Ken Hutchinson had singles.

Enyedy continued his magic around the net on Sunday as he had a two-goal effort. James Jefinski also potted a pair for the Rangers with Powell, Hutchinson, McKechnie, Jorgenson and Daryl Winter added the others.

Girl attacked by dog

A doberman/shepherd cross dog was destroyed Saturday after a nine-year old girl was bitten.

According to RCMP, the girl was bitten on the arm and hand. The incident which took place in Poplar Ridge was reported to the authorities at 3:40 p.m. on Friday afternoon.

The dog was shot on Saturday, under the Dangerous Dog Act.

Provincials

Boxing club collects medals

Members of the Derrick Boxing Club collected two gold, four silver and one bronze medal at the provincials last weekend.

Ross Peden in the 147-pound class and Michael Hodginkson who weighed in for the 85-pound division won the gold medals the easy way.

When they didn't have a fight in their weight category they automatically won the gold and both boxers were bumped to the next level where they lost.

Wes Litke won an unanimous decision on Saturday in the 178-pound light heavy weight class but lost his bout on Sunday in collecting a silver medal. Litke's fight on Sunday was only his 12th, while his opponent, Doug Brown, was in the ring for the 200th time.

Darcy Whitten, 147-pound junior C lost a split decision on Saturday to collect the silver. Steven Gilbert, 139-pound junior B got a bye on Saturday and lost Sunday to win his silver while Terry Schwartz, fighting in the 147-pound senior division with just three weeks training under his belt, got a bye in his first bout and lost a close decision in capturing the silver medal.

The bronze medal winner was Shawn Harden who lost his only fight. However, Derrick Boxing Club coach Lawrence Duperron said Harden hadn't fully recovered from an illness that kept him out of the recent Alberta Winter Games in Red Deer.

"We were in tough competition. Our boys are pretty green," Duperron said following the Alberta card in Edmonton.

However, Duperron was extremely proud of his fighters, who have been hurt by the lack of training.

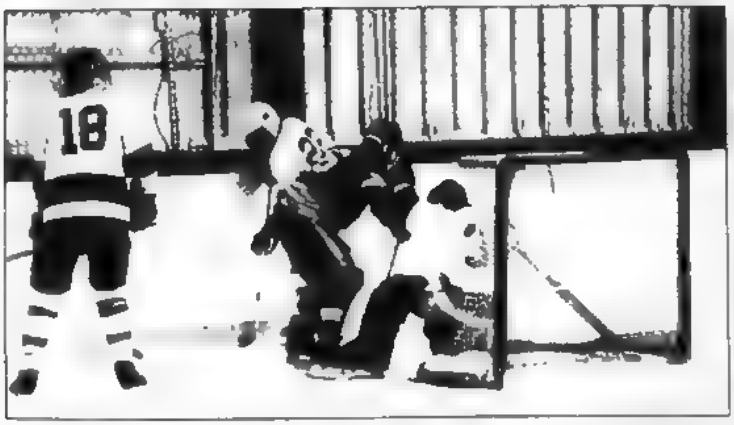
Coaches direct traffic after win against Red Deer



Oilers goalie Steven Foster is trapped behind his net during weekend action

By Frank Ryan

Two RCMP officers end[ed] up directing traffic on the ice at the Drayton Valley arena Sunday night.

Years Robert[s] and a number of the Drayton Valley coach[es] Robson and Larry Pearson of Red Deer were needed to stop an ugly scuffle from developing at the end of a bantam hockey game.

After the home town Oilers had skated off with a 7-win over the Red Deer Kings in a hard fought affair, the two teams met at centre ice for the usual post game hand shake. Just as the teams were about to skate off some pushing and shoving started.

The two RCMP officers who are also coaches of the respective teams rushed into the middle of the players and directed traffic before anything serious happened.

There was also a fight near the Norcats dressing room door as the players left the ice.

Jason Kaplan's power play goal at 11:40 of the opening period was enough to win for the Oilers.

They [illegible] the second and third periods as Chris Gray and Craig Warren scored early in the second for a 4-1 lead before the Kings closed the gap scoring with a two man advantage.

Kris Bergquist scored at 1:41 of second to be the winner. Mark Hansen added an insurance marker with less than six minutes to play.

In another league game against Evans Norcats dropped a 7-3 decision in Penhold. The Oilers have three league games remaining.

Devils' playoff hopes still up in the air

By Frank Ryan

Off the ice there's still a slim chance the Drayton Valley Devils will make the Heritage Junior II Hockey League playoffs.

But on the ice, it was the same old story.

The biggest news off the ice was the unexpected resignation of league president and governor Dave Mulligan of Rimbey.

The league teams participated in a conference call on Sunday morning at which time a number of suspensions were dealt with but no decision was made on the playoffs.

According to Devils coach Heiser Allen it's likely the old Spruce Grove who are pushing the four game playoff series and both of their best-of-seven opponents to go out in the Junior League playoffs.

All this hoping for next year.

On the ice, the Devils were [illegible] in the contest with Rimbey taking [illegible] Mulligan's absence [illegible] all second period scorers were in the first frame as the Weststars were [illegible] with 16 penalties and the Devils took 12.

But the Devils didn't quit against the league's best team.

Chad Allen opened the scoring for the home town Devils at the 55 second mark but the Weststars replied with three goals before the end of the first. Scott Kynoch's goal at 6:42 of the middle frame put the Devils within one but that was as close as they would get.

The Weststars led 3-2 after 40 minutes and wrapped up the win well into the third before a series of fisticuffs broke out.

Shawn Busse at 12:47 and Kynoch with his second of the game at 15:04 made the game [illegible].

Kevin Drake led the Weststars with three goals and a pair of assists.

Devils six penalties were led by the combat with Rimbey taking [illegible] Mulligan's absence [illegible] all second period scorers were in the first frame as the Weststars were [illegible] with 16 penalties and the Devils took 12.

The Devils power play accounted for three goals while the Weststars had two on the power play and two shorthanded.

In Sunday's game, played at Bentley, the Devils held an early 1-0 lead on Jeff Krukowski's goal but trailed 2-1 by the end of the period and 3-1 after 10 minutes.

The lack of players continued to hound the Devils as only nine showed for the game against Lacombe.

Tomorrow (Wednesday) the Devils are scheduled to travel to Hobbema before returning home for their final two regular season games on home ice. Fridays against Spruce Grove and Saturday will see Lacombe come to town.

20th anniversary

Sportsmen's show

The Edmonton Boat and Sportsmen's Show will celebrate its 20th anniversary by providing recreation for young Canadians 14 years and younger who are accompanied by an adult.

The 1988 show at the Northlands Agri-Com will run from March 4 to 13.

We have a new design for the show with the arena round and the new aisles so booth prices should encourage greater farm participation, says show manager Jim Carslake of Canadian National Sportsmen's Shows.

The show, the biggest of its kind on the Prairies, will showcase what's new in the popular areas of leisure, recreation and outdoor living. In addition to boats and marine products there will be camping trailers, motor homes, all-terrain vehicles, fishing and hunting equipment.

Beer will also be the main complement of farm oriented entertainment and educational features.

The Edmonton show will be open to the public from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. on the first two evenings from noon to 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and from noon to 6 p.m. on the final day, March 13.

Skating rinks open

By Charlene Jenkins

Now that winter has really arrived it's time to plan some outdoor recreation activities.

The outdoor rinks are prepared and ready for public skating.

McKenzie Park rink has outdoor lights so you can enjoy a skate anytime during the day or evening.

Northview Pond has been cleared and flooded. The recreation department will be monitoring ice thickness on a regular basis. A barricade and signs will be posted when the ice is unsafe. Please respect the barricade when it is in effect. This is for your safety.

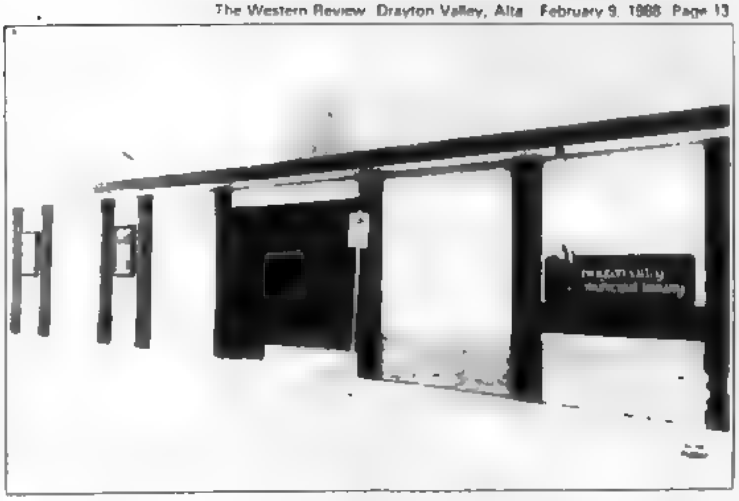
The Frank Maddock skating oval is a real popular family skating location. It's not uncommon to see 40 or 50 skaters out on a weekend. During warm weather exercise caution and watch for thin spots.

The Eldorado and Watson Park rinks are currently being prepared for public skating. If the weather permits these rinks will be ready soon.

Public skating hours at the Leisure Area are Fridays from 6:15 p.m. to 7:40 p.m. and Sundays from 1 to 2:15 p.m. These hours are adjusted for tournaments so check with the daily recorded message line 542-5547.

Park Vales pool is currently accepting registrations for programs commencing this month. For program or registration information please call 542-5719.

Don't forget there have been a few changes made to the pool schedule. Drop down and pick up a copy from the cashier.



For sale

The Drayton Valley municipal library is still for sale. When the town's Jan. 27 deadline arrived, no bids had been received for the building. Councillor Jean Saunders says the one person who was apparently interested, was out of town and didn't submit a bid. Saunders expects the town to re-advertise the property.

Holiday on Ice

Skaters to begin practice

On Feb. 22 the local figure skate program begins practising for the ice carnival.

This year the carnival will be held March 19 and will feature the theme "Holiday on Ice". March 19 also marks the final day for the 1987/88 Canskate season.

Anyone wanting to help out with the carnival may contact Caron Baird at 542-5246.

Since beginning its program last October the number of registrants has jumped from 36 to 62 skaters.

Head coach Karen Kirkwood has a number of assistants working under her including Susan Johns, Ann Baker, Tammy Townsend, Julie Mosteig, Tracy Wilson, Patti Pankratz, Shelley Kopsch, Sandra Town, Cheryl Hanson and Sheila Hanson. All the coaches contribute their time to the program.

On Dec. 11 parents were invited to take part in sessions with their children. Santa arrived along with a few Sesame Street characters and Santa had a goodie bag for everyone, again supplied by businesses.

During the past three months, the children have been working very hard to improve their skating skills. Approximately 50 per cent have been awarded badges as of last December.

In Canadian Figure Skating news, Shelly Kopsch went to a Canskate clinic and obtained her teaching certificate.

Shelly Simpson passed her preliminary figure and her Dutch waltz. Sheridan Nikiforuk passed her swing. Tracy Wilson received her junior bronze free skate. Tammy Thorsen passed her jump and Sandra Town passed her rock.

Building with brass

Mechanic Norm Ranger works on transforming a brass planter into a tail-light for a roadster he is building from scratch. The roadster, made almost entirely of brass, has been a project of Ranger's for the past five years, but plans are to have the vehicle completed this summer in time for long-distance travelling.

County may apply for provincial help

By Phil Melnychuk
Stony Plain Reporter

Parkland taxpayers worried the loss of the west end mas spell a tax hike shouldn t yet too worried yet

It's still too soon to predict such a fate says the county reeve And besides here s a good chance of a pro vincial bail out

Loss of the Drayton Valley area means about 100 fewer people in the county of Parkland That will affect provincial grants

To fill the gap the county has applied to the province for interim financial help

"We definitely figure that we need a transition grant," Reeve Ken Fuhr says

The county s preference is to have a grant available for five years one that starts high and drops as the county adjusts to its smaller territory

The split leaves the county with a smaller area to service and about 15 to 20 per cent less revenue.

But that doesn't mean the county can automatically trim its budget by the same amount

You can just cut 20 per cent of everybody that works there so it definitely costs more Fuhr noted

In any event, Parkland probably won't be affected for the next year, he said

The service contract being drawn up between Parkland and the Department of Municipal Affairs would purchase the county for its expenses there for this year

Operating grant increases mean more for county

Recently announced 1988 89 provincial operating grant increases for education will mean an additional $485 412 in revenue for the County of Parkland public school system

Assistant superintendent Walter Heppler told the board of trustees last month the increase represents about one per cent of the system's total 1987 88 revenues of $50 2 million.

Provincial grants accounted for $30.8 million of that total

One of the bonuses included in the new grant schedules is the announcement that payments to the county will be speeded up.

This will improve the school system's cash flow position and will reduce the amount of money required to pay for interest on debentures

The local jurisdiction's equity grant has been declining in recent years, and the new schedules may also slow down that decline somewhat

$3.3 Million loans

The Alberta Opportunity Company has approved 37 small business loans totaling $3.3 million during the month of December.

Farmers express fears

A group of landowners have vowed to block a proposal by a Medicine Hat area disposal facility to build three kilometres south of Red Deer on Highway 2.

Neighboring farmers still smarting after the City of Red Deer landfill was located in their area 15 years ago against their wishes are afraid history is repeating itself.

Passes abolished

Senior citizens in Red Deer will have to pay more to ride buses this year following a city council decision to abolish $10 lifetime passes.

Effective March 1 seniors will have to pay 65 cents per ride or $25 for a year.

Water rates climb

Residents of Leduc are paying four per cent more for their water this year.

New golf course

A new 18-hole golf course may be constructed in the County of Leduc approximately four miles northeast of Beaumont.

Taxes go up

The owner of a three bedroom bungalow in Red Deer will pay about $51 more in taxes this year following city council's approval of a 6.5 per cent tax increase.

Teachers sign

Teachers in the Battle River school authority have voted by a narrow margin to accept a new contract which provides a pay increase of 2.5 per cent over 20 months.

Mayor gets raise

Bob McGhee, the mayor of Red Deer will receive a $50,900 honorarium this year following council approval of a two per cent pay hike. In addition the mayor gets a monthly expense allowance of $211 and one third of his salary is non taxable.

Man arrested

RCMP have arrested a 22 year old Debolt man in connection with the beating of a senior citizen who started a burger on his mobile home.

Mail via dogsled

A couple from Rocky Mountain House will relive the trails of the pioneer mailmen when they haul a sack of letters by dogsled across 250 kilometres of Northern Alberta wilderness.

RCMP Const. Richard Smith and his wife Diane intend to retrace a North West Mounted Police mail run starting on March 15 from Fort Smith, N.W.T. to Fort Chipewyan.

Recreation costs up

It will cost Red Deer residents more for recreation and parks programs this year.

Swim passes are going up from 75 to 85 per cent. The latest swim pass jumps from $40 to $150. Field rentals will increase 25 per cent and an arena hold to the $4 million recreation budget. Ice snow banks rinks have been eliminated.

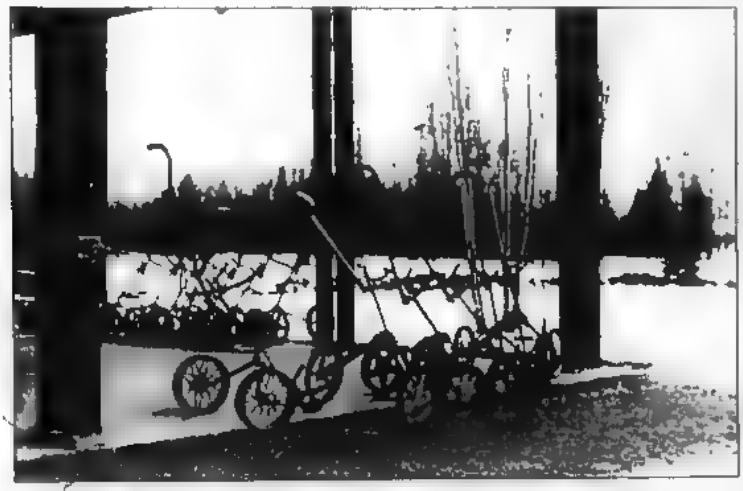
Editor going north

Monica Dick, former editor of The Western Review, has been appointed to a similar position with the Mount Northern Sentinel a triweekly paper with a circulation of 15,000.

Dick had been working for QCTV.

Busy

Henry Roudreau won't have to worry about his duties on the ID 222 advisory committee. He has been appointed to the health unit, landfill, ambulance and Meridian Foundation.



Anyone for golf?

While the golfing season is still a few weeks off, the Drayton Valley course appears to be getting a head start by getting their golf carts out.

MS Society research promising

The Drayton Valley chapter, Alberta Division, of the MS Society of Canada has announced that at last some movement has been reached in research of the disease.

Paul Scott, executive director of the Alberta division, advised the local chapter executive that a few treatments are nearing research trials with individuals.

The encouraging signs have prompted the MS Society to channel as many funds as possible into the research field, he said.

To assist this crucial effort the Drayton Valley chapter will be holding the MS Carnation campaign May 6 to 7 of this year as well as a door to door campaign later the same month.

"Interesting fund raising events were approved and it is hoped the area will enjoy and support our coming unique events planned," comments chapter president Wayne Gen[illegible].

DV Presents performing three controversial plays

Submitted by
the Drayton Valley Players

The Drayton Valley Players are in a state of confusion and invite you to join them Feb 18 19 20 when they will be performing three controversial one act plays

The plays entitled Porch Dr Herbert and Whisper Into My Good Ear are being directed by three members of the Drayton Valley Players who are working together and separately to create an evening of entertainment up to and exceeding their usual high standards

Each director is working not only to achieve excellence in Drayton Valley but also in the regional one act play competition in Whitecourt at the end of February If successful they will compete in Calgary next month

Pat Kichlbauch

Porch

Directed by
Shaun Murphy

The play Porch set on a porch in Texas highlights the relationship between Dot a 70 year old woman and Estelle her spinster daughter of 45

Although basically humorous the play takes a turn to a darker side where all is not as happy as it seems where there are more concerns than how you'll survive this latest heat wave This gripping comedy draws you into a tense power play between the two women

Dot is played by Diane Lynch, a woman possessing great talent who brings much to the role. Previous acting experience and insight into the mind of a 70 year old [illegible] manipulating women and how she wields her power over her daughter demonstrate Diane's stature as an actress

Opposite Diane's Dot is Lue Cooper Estelle a woman aching for freedom and whatever else she can find on the block Lue is an exceptional actress and brings other skills to this play as she anguishes rocks her life away on the porch gazing out at the world caught in a bittersweet struggle to stay or to leave

******

I'm Herbert

Directed by
Pat Kichlbauch

A short and lighter play was needed to round off the evening of drama so I'm Herbert was chosen

I started to get to work [illegible] Both were [illegible] Pat's roots Ms are versus experience includes acting on the Drayton Valley Players produced and [illegible] Both actors received as the evil Queen Lona in the Unicorn Mine I also have an [illegible] drama at HW Pickup now high

The cast for I'm Herbert consists Linda Bennett and Dr. Bob Smith As well as appearing on Calgary television, Bennett previously performed as Nancy in the musical Oliver while Smith is making his acting debut as Herbert

These two team up to portray an elderly couple as they reminisce about the past in a jumbled confusion of [illegible] wives who [illegible] husbands and numerous children Despite the inevitable bickering, Muriel and Herbert's relationship endures as it was that Muriel and Harry no it was Mary and Harry and [illegible]

Birth rate like roller coaster...

The number of births in Alberta has gone up and down like a roller coaster for the past 40 years

After touching bottom in 1935 at 15,766 births rose each year to reach 39,009 at the peak of the baby boom in 1960

Post war low was 29,282 in 1972 Large scale in migration in the boom years reversed the trend and an all time high of 15,600 was reached in 1983. (All figures from the Alberta Bureau of Statistics)

This is not just history these children are today's and tomorrow's students, employees, and consumers.

Many goods and services are sold to very narrow age groups Ignoring migration for a moment the 30 percent increase in births between 1965 and 1983 means 30 per cent more demand for places in schools in the 1990s and 30 per cent more demand for jobs, houses, and mortgages in the next century

Ambulance authority

Parkland threatens legal action

The Parkland Ambulance Authority is threatening to take legal action to prevent an independent ambulance operator from registering its service under the same name.

Town councillors in Stony Plain were told that Nanaimo J. Rildrum owner of Mobile Care Ambulance in Wabamun filed a request with the Alberta Central Registry on Nov. 12 1987 to gain approval for the trade name Parkland Ambulance Authority.

Stony Plain Spruce Grove the County of Parkland Alberta Beach Wabamun and Onoway entered into an agreement in 1983 to provide ambulance service in the area and delegated a committee of representatives to supervise and operate the service under that name.

The name was not registered however because the PAA's policy requires Council for Barrie Day explained.

By allowing an independent operator to use the name Parkland Ambulance Authority the municipalities fear the risk of seeing the reputation of their service damaged he pointed out.

Ambulance users could become confused and the municipalities could be asked to pay for services the latter do not provide.

The town parkland PAA's next meeting is at the end of the month despite what he says is legal court has said.

It may subsequently make its own attempt to register the Parkland Ambulance Authority name in order to avoid a repeat occurrence of the present situation.

Oilfield thefts on rise

A recent upsurge in the number of oilfield thefts has police concerned.

Cpl. Len Vatamaniuk said there has been three reported thefts so far this year.

He noted recent arrests statistics have shown that thieves are taking advantage of the low environment of many unemployed camps.

With so many people going around looking for employment on a daily basis it creates problems because stuff has been said.

Vatamaniuk added the thefts are usually minor in nature.

Gravel contract awarded

A $121,100 gravel crushing and stockpiling contract in the Strachan Forestry Reserve area has been awarded to Anderson Sand and Gravel Ltd. of Drayton Valley.

The contract involves the crushing and stockpiling of 30,000 cubic metres of gravel in the B Gravel Pit 20 kilometres north of Strachan and 30,000 tonnes in the Hummocks Gravel Pit 30 kilometres west of Edson.

Complaint dismissed

The Alberta Press Council has dismissed Douglas Helms complaint against the Red Deer Advocate

Helms felt the Advocate was remiss in not publishing his letter to the editor regarding store closing hours in Red Deer The council could not uphold Helms complaint because it was abundantly clear the Advocate had properly published numerous letters addressing both sides of the controversy Helms letter addressed the issue from the point of view of Christian theology and was not seminal to what was essentially a political debate engendered by city council

Limited space forces a paper to be selective in the choice of letters printed. The Advocate's disclaimer on its letters to the editor page states "it reserves the right to shorten letters and to edit for clarity, legality, personal abuse or good taste."

It is clear the Advocate had a number of reasons not to publish Helms letter under its published criteria for letters to the editor

'Would they prefer a school division?'

Improvement District [illegible] has a new problem.

With a school and municipal vote tentatively scheduled for March 1 Drayton Valley and area residents must be kept informed

This is our biggest concern says Earl Briscoe, interim municipal manager

Briscoe says the Department of Municipal Affairs is hosting a number of meetings in an effort to get the people

[illegible] important to [illegible] concerned

For example the [illegible] Drayton Valley will [illegible] to discuss [illegible] the results of [illegible] Mons Lake, Lindale [illegible] Rich Lake, Edgerton [illegible] will vote on [illegible] annexation

MLA Shirley Cripps told a recent public meeting at Tomahawk the school question will ask people if they would prefer a new school division or the Drayton Valley area

Realizing that residents will have to choose between the existing County of Parkland and the new ID Briscoe says the level of service will probably be main tained

Cripps also told the Tomahawk meeting the exact wording of the two questions would be set out at [illegible]

Meanwhile Briscoe met privately with town council last Tuesday

Sharing recreation costs was discussed along with what to do about [illegible] Briscoe said

Producing water

The town's expanded water treatment plant is now operational and producing water

[illegible] Engineer Morgan Scott said [illegible] of the [illegible] committee [illegible] recommendations to the council [illegible] and three [illegible] are now [illegible]

He said the work will be carried out by the town except for the welding [illegible] ing, sandblasting and painting all [illegible]

Wages [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Scott told [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Age, race and heredity

Many factors influence blood pressure

There are a number of factors which influence your blood pressure. Some you can control, others you cannot.

Your heredity, race and sex are matters over which you have little control. It is important to realize that they can be significant factors in blood pressure problems.

With age, for instance, blood vessels become less elastic, less capable of expanding to accommodate normal blood flow. This forces the heart to work harder and the pressure on the artery walls increases accordingly.

If your family has a history of high blood pressure, stroke or heart disease, you may have a genetic predisposition for developing the same problem. Similarly, if you are black, your risk of developing high blood pressure may be increased greater than it is for individuals of other races.

You at greater risk are women, but menopause and men who exhibit one or more of the factors to be discussed, of age, heredity, race.

The factors we can control pertain to lifestyle and it cannot be emphasized enough, that adopting lifestyle habits conducive to maintaining normal blood pressure is as important for the person with a high blood pressure problem as it is for a healthy individual. The difference is, where there is a problem, a doctor may prescribe medication as well as more rigid adherence to certain lifestyle patterns (eg. reducing salt in diet) to effect the desired changes.

Generally speaking, to keep your blood pressure at a healthy level:

Eat a well balanced diet based on Canada's Food Guide. Choose from all four food groups: fruit and vegetables, breads and cereals, milk and milk products, meat, fish and poultry.

Balance the calories you consume with exercise. Check with your doctor and embark on a regular exercise program.

If you don't smoke, don't start! If you do, quit.

Eliminate alcohol use or use it with moderation.

Manage your emotions and your time to control the degree to which stress controls you. If you cannot do it alone, seek professional help.

By emphasizing that lifestyle choice has a direct bearing on our ability to maintain a healthy blood pressure or to recover from a blood pressure problem, the Heart and Stroke Foundation program, Know Your Blood Pressure By Heart, will challenge people to become active participants in their own health.

The message it delivers is a clear one — it's your blood pressure.

Know what it is, know what it means and know the factors which influence it. It's your health that's at stake.

Ways to avoid bait-and-switch pitfalls

The Better Business Bureau is receiving complaints of electronic retailers employing bait and switch tactics in Edmonton.

A bait offer is an adurising but insincere offer to sell a product or service which the advertiser does not intend to sell. Its purpose is to switch consumers from buying the advertised merchandise or service in order to sell something else usually at a higher price or on a basis more advantageous to the advertiser.

a. No advertisement should be published unless it is a bona fide offer to sell the advertised merchandise or service.

b. The advertising should not create a false impression about the product or service being offered in order to lay the foundation for a later switch to other more expensive products or services or products of a lesser quality at the same price.

c. Subsequent full disclosure by the advertiser of all other facts about the advertised article does not preclude the existence of a bait scheme.

d. An advertiser should not use or permit the use of the following bait scheme practices:

refusing to show or demonstrate the advertised merchandise or service;

disparaging the advertised merchandise or service, its warranty, availability, services and parts, credit terms etc.

selling the advertised merchandise or service and thereafter "unselling" the customer to make a switch to other merchandise or service.

refusing to take orders for the advertised merchandise or service or to deliver it within a reasonable time.

demonstrating or showing a defective sample of the advertised merchandise or having a sales compensation plan designed to penalize salespersons who sell the advertised merchandise or service.

e. An advertiser should have on hand a sufficient quantity of advertised merchandise to meet reasonable anticipated demands, unless the advertisement discloses the number of items available or states while supplies last." If items are available only at certain branches, their specific locations should be disclosed. The use of rain checks is no justification for inadequate estimates of reasonably anticipated demand.

f. Actual sales of the advertised merchandise or service may not preclude the existence of a bait scheme since this may be merely an attempt to create an aura of legitimacy. A key factor in determining the existence of bait is the number of times the merchandise or service was advertised compared to the number of actual sales of the merchandise or service.

The best way to avoid bait and switch pitfalls is to compare prices and find out what a similar merchandise sells for in other stores. If the prices average from 15 to 50 per cent lower at the bargain store suspect bait and switch.

If you have an instance of this type of tactic call your BBB at 488 4184.

Tomahawk

Petition to redraw boundaries

Long time Tomahawk resident, farmer and fire fighter Frank Gilbert is mad as hell and he wants out.

Gilbert who lives just south of the Highway 624 border that neatly divides new Improvement District 222 from the County of Parkland, wants out of the new jurisdiction and back in to Parkland.

And he's taking on the carpet both municipal affairs and Parkland for the position he's in now.

The government made a big mistake including part of the Tomahawk area into the core area Gilbert said recently.

When municipal affairs used Highway 624 as the border for the new ID and Parkland it included several people who vehemently opposed the Drayton Valley split and said so during the 86 referendum Gilbert added.

Now he wants municipal affairs to redraw the boundaries of the core area to allow residents to vote whether they're in or out.

He has started a petition to convince the government to redraw the ID boundaries.

Gilbert wants to know who in municipal affairs drew the line for ID 222's northern boundary. He said the government hasn't responded to a letter from Parkland county council requesting that all of the Tomahawk area be allowed to vote.

Farm goods, services

New directory to be compiled

The Drayton Valley Agricultural Society in cooperation with Alberta Agriculture will be compiling and publishing a comprehensive set of directors of all agricultural goods and services available in the Drayton Valley district.

The unique nature of agriculture in the Drayton Valley area results in a wide blend of agricultural goods and services sector.

Often the Alberta Agriculture office in Drayton Valley is contacted with questions as seemingly straightforward as "Where do I purchase fertilizer?" "Who does hoof trimming corral cleaning land clearing etc?" The office receives numerous questions regarding where to get a particular breed of livestock or a particular variety of seed or feed grain.

The Agricultural Society and Alberta Agriculture hope this comprehensive directory will serve two purposes. First it will demonstrate the size and variety of the agriculture industry in the Drayton Valley area. Second ly the directory will identify sellers of agricultural goods and services and make farmers more aware of what is available locally.

The directory will list and give a brief summary of all agricultural goods and services available. The headings include: Retailers of Agricultural Products Breeding Stock Suppliers of Cattle, Hogs Sheep & Goats Suppliers of Feed and Seed Grain Suppliers of Agricultural Services and Agriculturally oriented groups and Organizations.

At this point the collection of information is nearing completion. If there is anyone who provides any type of goods or service to the local agricultural community and has not been contacted they are encouraged to contact Alberta Agriculture in Drayton Valley at 542-5508.

The directory will be published later this month for distribution to all area farmers during Agriculture Week March 14-19.

Shirley Cripps

Few days off

Drayton Valley MLA Shirley Cripps only had four days off last month.

Meetings made up her agenda for the rest of the month.

An example of the MLA's schedule was published in last weeks Western Review.

Speaking from her office in Edmonton Cripps told a Western Review reporter that she published her meeting dates so people would know what's happening.

People wonder where I am and what I'm doing, she added.

County police stay put

The county police aren't going anywhere.

At least not this week.

Sgt. Grant Ghster told The Western Review last Thursday that no decision has been made about their future.

The county police based in Drayton Valley have seen their role change since Improvement District 222 was formed. Because of that their present duties are outside the ID boundaries.

Ghster says the three man detachment is working in the Duffield/Darwell area that had been handled by their Stony Plain office.

And the rumor the county police were going to relocate in Tomahawk is just that a rumor according to Ghster.

"We don't know if Tomahawk is going to remain with the County of Parkland or go with the ID" Ghster said.

Meanwhile, the absence of county police in the area isn't expected to create a lot of work for the RCMP detachment in Drayton Valley.

Tom Turner acting staff sergeant, says he doesn't expect too many changes.

"We're going to step up our rural traffic enforcement," Turner indicated.

Given these prices, we're predicting a heat wave in February.

Breton news

Youth's sudden death saddens town

By Shelli Carson
696-2290

Our community was saddened by the sudden death of one of our young people Stephen Fullerton who died suddenly in a vehicle accident Jan. 28. Michael Ward, a passenger remains in the University of Alberta Hospital recovering.

Funeral services were held Monday, Feb. 1 at Faith Covenant Church with Rev Stanley Guard and Pastor Dan Stroman officiating. Interment followed in the Poplar Valley Cemetery.

Stephen was active in the Breton Cadet Corps and with the Faith Covenant Church Youth group.

Five ladies of the Breton ODRP Lodge took the travelling gavel to the Warburg Legion Jan. 4 where the Breton ladies entertained with a fashion show.

The district meeting will be hosted by the Warburg Lodge April 16. A $20 donation was sent to the student talent show to be held Feb. 11.

The sum of $76 for one square foot was sent to Al T Telerama and $50 to Herman and Gloria Berry who recently lost their home in a fire.

Ladies are reminded the meetings start at 7:30 p.m. during winter months.

Breton Curling Club held its men's open bonspiel Jan. 22-24, with 24 rinks participating.

Harold Hanson, with teammates Doug Zingle, Lorne Hostyn and Dan Blawchuk defeated the Alex Waldron foursome 11-9 in the A event. Curling for Waldron were Roy Young, Allen Hatt and Grant Shaw.

Second event was won by the Mike Wolken rink over Lee Hodgson rink of Drayton Valley. Third event was won by the Bill Jenkins team over Paul Liber.

Congratulations to Wendy and Harlen Hanson on the birth of daughter Courtney Dawn Jan. 27 at the U of A Hospital. She weighed nine pounds 10 ounces, a sister for Tyler and Bonnie-Jean.

Congratulations also to Roxanne and Doug Yarkowsky (Patton), on the arrival of their son Feb. 13, at the Breton General Hospital.

The Lady Cougars won the championship trophy at Niton Junction recently defeating three other teams. In round robin action the club downed Onoway 36-8, Niton Junction 41-16 and Whitecourt 34-10. In the championship final the Lady Cougars took quick command over Whitecourt winning 40-23. Scoring for the club were Dana O'Hearn (49 points), Michelle Impey (26), Anita Bryant (14), Anna Bryant (22), Kim Stevenson (12), Missy Adair (16), Kaelyn Hutchinson (8) and Heather Power (7).

The Cougars took the consolation trophy the same weekend at the Leduc JV tourney. After losing a disappointing game to Arch Bishop Jordan (Sherwood Park) 81-66, the team came back to play some decent basketball defeating Camille La Rouge (Red Deer) 68-64 in overtime. In the consolation final the Cougars won over St. Albert 74-53. Scoring for the club were Shane Freeson (87), Mark Waldron (39), Warren Schumacher (35), Dan Evans (29), Dallas Ekstrom (9) and Lorne Larsen (6). Shane Freeson won an all star award as well.

Writer remembers good times, friendliness

Trying to remember what it was like to grow up in Drayton Valley is, at first quite challenging.

One doesn't know whether to concentrate on trivial personal facts or those which related to the whole town in general. Because I was young when I first arrived there, I shall balance the two.

The name Drayton Valley first came to my attention when we were living in Moncton, New Brunswick. It was the spring, I was in Grade 4 French immersion and my parents were preparing to fly West to check a job offer. My younger brother, sister and myself were billeted with various unsuspecting and somewhat naive friends of the family.

Identity begins

After a two-week absence our parents returned. The announcement was made that we were to move and another adventure began.

Adventure it was. Unlike most families, ours prefers to do things in as complicated a manner as possible. Instead of simply arranging for a furniture mover and plane tickets, we opted for a somewhat more interesting approach. A friend with a horse box for 12 was contacted and all our worldly goods were loaded aboard with two horses on the rear – it made the trip in three days.

Being that a horse box replaced Tippet Richardson, it only seems logical that we invested in a camper rather than simply flying to Edmonton.

The camper arose from Mom and Dad's decision to "explore America" and to give their offspring an educational experience. Exploration became expedition and after the first week of covering an average of 500 miles a day, Drayton Valley was beginning to look like paradise on earth, even though we three children squabbling all the way, had never seen the place. I do not recommend that any family "explore America" on anywhere else of the summer sun shines and your Chevy Suburban is not equipped with air conditioning, a VCR, and separate compartments for each child.

As we drew closer to our destination, we started to consider what lay ahead of us. The excitement grew at the Alberta corner when we could see Drayton's name. Next we saw the water tower and then the town.

Where were the wells, cowboys?

At first sight, Drayton Valley seemed to be a bit of a letdown. If this was an oil town, where were all the oil wells with black stuff squirting from them? Why wasn't there a pump jack for kids to ride on in everyone's back yard? Where did all the cowboys go? Three newly arrived kids started to have second thoughts about the hype their parents had been feeding them on the highway.

When we arrived in Drayton Valley it was the mid-seventies. These were the boom years. The town has seen much change since then. I remember that Dod son Plaza was the only shopping centre, Mike's Confectionery was located in a very old building across from Eldorado school (then a violent green colour), and the town was quite small.

It was the small-ness that caused our first problem — finding a house. Many people were moving to Drayton and the housing market was very tight. Compared to a depressed housing market in New Brunswick, prices seemed incredibly high. After weeks of searching, we finally purchased a property near the drive-in theatre on the east side of town. It was a good size and had enough land for the horses.

Quickly made friends

My brother and I were enrolled in Elementary B school. Having done our first four grades in French, we were both wondering how difficult school would be in English. To our surprise, it was quite easy. We quickly made lots of friends.

One of the favorite pastimes at the school was playing on the maypole swings. These swings have since been altered. They used to consist of a long pole that had a rotating top. From this top were suspended several chains on which you could swing. When properly used, you could find yourself flying around the pole six feet above the ground. The chains occasionally made contact with somebody's head and they have now been replaced with rope — diminishing the wonderful terror of the little considerable.

Drayton Valley was for many to forget some fantastic teachers. I am certain that it is because of them that my brother and I and many others in our age group furthered their academic careers after high school graduation. While I was never taught by Frank Maddock high school principal, Mr. Richie Woods he greatly influenced me to believe in the school motto "Strive to Excel." I know that there are many who feel the same way. Mine was the final Grade 12 class to graduate before his untimely death.

This essay by Henry Loosmore was the first-prize winner in the Drayton Valley Historical Society 1987 essay competition.

The subject was 'My Life in Drayton Valley.'

Lots of school spirit, pride

School spirit was high. Students had a lot of pride in their school. While I attended Frank Maddock the students held a plebiscite to determine whether smoking be continued to be done in the main lobby. There was an overwhelming majority who voted that smoking be banned from the school. Many of us believed that it reflected poorly upon all students.

Occasionally we were reminded about the oil industry that kept the town alive. The two occasions that I remember most vividly were the sour gas blowouts. The ghastly smell of sulphurous gas is one that is difficult to forget. Several days of it is enough to drive one mad — we all made it through. These things must be put up with if oil keeps the place alive. I remember one of my school friends had an American dollar bill signed by the wild-cat well capper — "Red" Adair.

Town mushroomed

As Drayton Valley grew, so did the number of things to do. The greatest pleasure for local residents has been dining out. Indeed so popular has this pursuit become that the town has mushroomed with restaurants running close second to the many gas bars. When we arrived Ceasars Steak and Pizza was about the only place to eat. It was located at the end of main street and had a small dark dining room with velvet wallpaper. It served the greatest steak and pizza that our family has ever tasted. The tradition continues today in the newer Ceasars Hotel. I am sure that this restaurant alone is responsible for the tradition of excellent cooking that can be found in the newer restaurants that must compete for the same customers.

One of the highlights of the year were the performances that were produced by the Drayton Valley Players. These plays were acted by amateurs who displayed continuously high talent. They produced comedies, musicals and children's plays. Tickets were often sold out.

Our family spent many winter days at the Drayton Valley Ski Club. Some years there was very little snow and the season was usually quite short. As soon as the hill opened, however, we would spend nearly every weekend there. Old gloves had to be worn as the tow ropes would destroy anything you wanted to keep nice. Club members would take turns when operating the T bar. This was a great job to have for half an hour just so that you could find out who else was skiing.

Easy to find job

It was quite easy to find an after school job. My first job was delivering The Western Review every Wednesday after school. The paper used to cost 20 cents and the paperboys were designated a section of the town and sold each copy from door to door. The price was convenient as our customers often gave a five cent tip when they paid with a quarter. With time, you could establish a good route. Mine grew to almost 50 papers and earned me about $10 per week. I felt that this was a great way to earn a living! Other jobs included working for a vet and doing janitorial work in various offices and banks around the town. By the time I was in high school, my bank account had grown considerably.

I was fortunate

Now that I have left Drayton Valley, I realize that I was fortunate to have grown up there. The town was small enough for everybody to be known and had far fewer problems than those that are found in large urban centres where poverty, and economic uncertainty have greater detrimental effects. Drayton Valley was a comfortable and friendly town. It is this that I remember most.

Four-day holiday

Honeymoon not over

By Chris Kreiser

These last four days I've had a wonderful holiday. It was a very typical honeymoon because I did spend most of the time in bed.

I guess you might say the honeymoon is over. I'm starting to remember when we were first married how I fret about being apart. When we were newly married if Fred went anywhere longer than a day I was devastated. I slept with his shirt because I missed him so much. I can't believe I did that, either. Remember, we're talking newlyweds here.)

I still don't like being apart very much but four days is about right every once in a while.

I don't sleep with his shirt anymore for one thing (I've ironed enough of them to have eliminated any bonding I may have felt earlier.)

I did however stay in my housecoat till noon. Well, okay if I'm going to be honest and admit till noo I may as well tell the whole truth. I stayed in it till 5 p.m. Such luxury.

I did all the things I don't dare do when Fred is home. After all, it was my holiday, my time to relax. So, what the heck I risked it all and...

I went to bed without brushing my teeth. I lived in jogging pants and didn't bother with make up.

Schedules went out the door and we ate when we were hungry. I made pancakes for supper. We had apple pie and freezies for breakfast. I ate enough cans of Alpha Bett Os and canned meatballs to last me another six months. For the first time in weeks I got cheered every night as I supped on weiners and macaroni four days in a row.

The kids thought I was such a treat to stay up till midnight and watch TV as late as we wanted. I answered every request as fast as I was rather than play another game of Sorry or Fish for the hundredth time.

As for house work well I was a lerge to it for three days! Two hours before Fred was to come home we raced about like frantic ants cleaning up but it was worth it.

By the fourth day however I'd relaxed enough to wonder how Fred was doing. I knew that Rebecca's first words to him as he came through the door would be, "Guess what Daddy! I stayed in my pajamas ALL day!" I could picture his answer too. "You're getting so much like your mother it's scarey." Small price to pay I could handle that.

I began to wonder too how his meetings were going and who he was meeting with. Some of those secretaries do look terrific. I pictured one in particular. She's a wonderful person and she looks great. I'm sure she get's up at 5 a.m. every morning. It has to take at least 2 hours to look that good.

Well none of this is a.m. stuff for me. Even if I got up in 1981 it wouldn't give me enough time.

But a nice hot bath and a little make up couldn't hurt could it? So I allowed the kids the run of the house against my better judgement and after several meaningful threats of counsel and I took my bath.

My honeymoon's over but the honeymoon isn't over yet.

On its way

From RCMP t-shirts to stereo equipment, The Beehive charity auction should be a success judging from the number of generous donations seen here.

Hockley elected president

Submitted by
Joyce Schadeck

A recent meeting of the Capra Valley Chapter of the Alberta Goat Breeders Association saw the present executive all returning to office.

Edna Hockley has been elected president. Marjorie Boake vice president. Joyce Schadeck, secretary treasurer.

Immediate plans are for a craft bake sale in the Derrick Mall on Feb. 12. This is the first of what is hoped to be a regular sale for fund raising to offset expenses of the July 1 annual goat show in Tomahawk.

The next monthly meeting is Feb. 8 at Edna Hockleys. Guest speaker will be Sara Emond, Alberta Government Goat Technician. Emond is to provide information on nutrition and the vitamin and mineral supplements necessary to overcome deficiencies in the present locally grown feeds. (Agriculturists/goat keepers) are invited to attend this meeting and bring questions they would like answered.

For more information call Edna at 542-2504.

New events at Winterfest

The 1988 version of the annual Ledue County Winterfest will include new activities as well as some old favourites says organizer Jacque Spencer

Bowling, tobogganing and snowshoeing are a few of the activities added to the ninth annual event held Feb 27 in Thorsby

A pancake breakfast will start the day off says Spencer "Beside the new activities there will also be the oldies but goodies like snowmobile racing cross-country skiing Frisbee golf and golf

We try to change the events a little bit every year to keep it fresh and keep the county residents coming back to the old favorites There will be the figure skating, hockey and broomball competitions as well as new ones Spencer said

The activities will take place at the Thorsby Recreation complex and the community centre An outdoor skating surface will also be prepared for Winterfest

To end the day a family dinner and dance will be held at the Thorsby community hall Dance tickets will be made available at a later date

For further information contact Jacque Spencer at the Ledue County office

Alberta Press Council

Paper called to task

The Calgary Herald was wrong to change pertinent statistical information in a letter to the editor without advising the author the Alberta Press Council has ruled.

In upholding a complaint from Kim Bowker The Alberta Press Council said the Herald was unfair to Bowker by arbitrarily changing statistics in her letter even though it believed her figures were incorrect.

The Herald should have notified Bowker of the proposed changes, and given her a chance to refute the new figures, withdraw her letter, or alter her letter.

Alternatively, the Herald could have published the figures in Bowker's letter as presented, and added their own figures in an Editor's Note

In her Nov 12 letter to the editor, Bowker accurately quoted statistics on problem dogs as presented to a public meeting of Calgary City Council.

These statistics had been presented by Animal Control

However in checking the figures for accuracy the Herald received a different and contradictory set of figures obtained from Animal Control

The Alberta Press Council ruled the Herald failed to follow its own policy on letters to the editor

Optimistic '88 will be a good year

By Richard E. Parr, president Alberta Chamber of Commerce

The business recovery continues but has been tempered as energy prices slipped and agricultural products remained depressed at year end

Economy intact, but...

The fragile economy of Alberta, so dependent on these two economic cornerstones, remains intact, but concerns continue as to whether the recovery can be maintained. What is required is stability of world energy prices and a reduction in the surplus of agricultural products so that recovery in export prices, particularly of grain, can occur

Endorses trade agreement

The much debated free trade agreement between Canada and the United States was signed Jan. 2 by the leaders of these two great trading nations

The Alberta Chamber of Commerce strongly endorses this agreement We believe that access to the U.S. markets by Canadian business is essential to the economic future of our country and our province. There should be no doubt that Alberta business has the capability and the expertise to take advantage of trading opportunities While some adjustments will be necessary, the Alberta Chamber of Commerce remains confident that, on balance, the positives far outweigh the negatives

The potential for trade and investment with the Pacific Rim Countries, particularly Taiwan, was a focus for the Alberta Chamber of Commerce during 1987. Its potential in 1988 and subsequent years is enormous The chamber will be in the vanguard of this initiative

In sound financial position

Challenge was the keyword for the Alberta Chamber of Commerce during the past year

We entered 1987 with a large deficit but decisive and quick support from community chambers of commerce throughout Alberta, and our corporate members, enabled the chamber to end the year in a sound financial position

I am pleased to report that it now has a modest surplus and, while there remains an indebtedness to community chambers, the Alberta Chamber is confident that a solid business plan is in place which will ensure the future economic viability of this important grass roots business network

Confident 1988 a good year

The Alberta Chamber of Commerce represents about 15,000 business enterprises and entrepreneurs in Alberta.

While chambers of commerce are, by their nature confident, the Alberta Chamber of Commerce is optimistic that 1988 will be good for business and their communities.

May 1988 be your year!

Swimmers, hot pool users

Price increases

Swimmers and hot pool users will pay more admission at federal national park facilities.

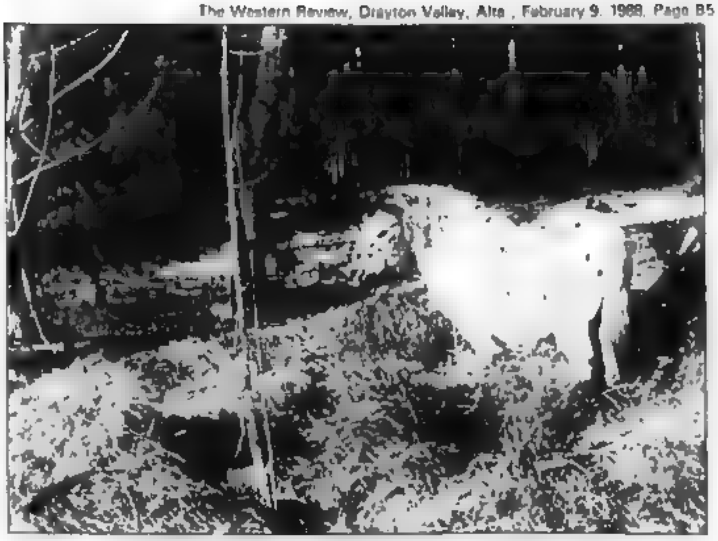
Environment Canada has raised single admission and entire family fees by 25 cents to $3 and $7.50 respectively. Fees for children [illegible] free. The last increase was two years ago and was below the reasonable level, said Steve Kati, western region director general pointing to $2.50 entry fees charged elsewhere.

He also announced the price of a new fishing permit. Effective April 1 a $5 permit will be made available. It will be valid for seven days. The $10 annual permit fee remains unchanged. This new permit should prove popular with national park visitors who fish only rarely, said Kati.

The pools open year round Banff Upper Hot Springs on Banff National Park and Radium Hot Springs Aquacourt in Kootenay National Park will be the first to charge the new fees. The pool at Waterfowl Lakes National Park, Marble Hot Springs at Jasper National Park and the Cave and Basin Centennial at Banff will follow suit when opened for the summer season.

Banff Upper Hot Springs is open from 2:30 to 9 p.m. Monday to Thursday and 8:30 a.m. to 11 p.m. Fridays to Sundays. The hot springs pool will have extended hours during the Olympic period Feb. 13 to March 25 when it will be open daily from 9:30 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Radium Hot Springs Aquacourt hot pool is open from noon to 9 p.m. Monday to Fridays and from 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. The aquacourt hours will also be extended for the Olympic period when it will operate from 9:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.



Horsing around

It's not just a dog's world. This well-fed little appaloosa horse seems content to be able to enjoy his meals anytime hunger strikes. Can his food supply also serve as insulation?

Common state of mind

By Pastor Harry A. McGhie
DV Pentecostal Assembly

"But I don t believe that there is a God! The whole business is stupidity and I don t know why I m wasting my time reading this trash!"

Welcome to the club You are not alone Atheism is a common state of mind in our world and many people accept it in some form or other

Personally, I became an atheist in the winter of 1965 I had been a church goer all of my life, but on this particular day I decided that it made more sense to believe that there was only a physical world that there was no other order of existence I came to this decision suddenly and completely and for two years I found it very satisfying I told no one because it was a personal matter and I wasn t concerned about what anyone else believed

After the first two years the satisfaction began to leave and for the next three and a half years I became progressively more miserable I didn t know how to get out of this state because I believed completely that there was nothing other than the physical world It wasn t reasonable but it was very binding and I couldn t find any way out Church didn t help and of course I didn t believe a word of the Bible

About this time I read a book called Stay Alive All Your Life by Norman Vincent Peale One sentence near the end of the book made me think, "Maybe there could be something other than the physical world

The idea seemed foolish but it persisted I had a very strong urge to pray something that I had not had for many years After struggling with this urge I finally forced myself to my knees. All I said was, "This seems stupid because I really don t think there is a God, but if there is I want to know about it

Instantly I knew there was a God Don t ask me how but I knew it for sure I then said "Lord I m tired of the way I am and I want to be changed Later I added But I grew up in the church and I know how to put on an act so if you don t change me I ll stay just the way I am

That was 1971 and God did change me My friends began to notice a immediate and the changes have continued right to the present and are still taking place About 11 years later God called me to preach.

Hebrews 11:6 says "He who comes to God must believe that He is, and that He is a rewarder of those who diligently seek Him "

Somehow you must believe enough to ask God for help If you do that He will reveal Himself to you and you will be on your way to knowing Him Jesus said in John 17:3, "This is eternal life that they may know You, the only true God and Jesus Christ whom You have sent

Cripps representing only a portion of constituency

MLA Shirley Cripps says she has not opposed the central high school planned for Pendryl in Wetaskiwin County's western end.

But she does deny support high schools she explained recently to parents who voted for the Pendryl school two years ago how small schools and split classes benefit students.

Cripps also admits to asking for a caveat on the Pendryl school plan when writing a letter to Alberta Education she says supported the proposal.

A caveat is a request for a delay.

Cripps therefore may not have actually opposed the Pendryl school, but she did and continues to work against it hairsplitting in anyone's book.

It's a curious stand for someone supposedly representing a democratic society.

Nor can her stand be called a sensible defense of the area's best interests. Educators agree, as the latest Alberta Education study confirmed, a new central school is needed if the area is to offer an acceptable high school curriculum.

Cripps is representing but a small fraction of one part of her constituency in this matter. Only a handful of people even in Winfield are so selfish as to want to cling to their high school program a few years longer at the expense of local high school students.

And Winfield will lose its high school eventually. Local students are already voting with their feet and refusing to accept sub-standard education.

A new larger, central high school for the area would provide a better choice of courses and therefore encourage more students to stay in the area.

Without it the local high school population may soon be too small for any program at all.

A new high school could already have been built. The County of Wetaskiwin is ready, but they can not obtain the necessary support from Alberta Education's building branch.

Perhaps if Cripps had not asked for a delay two years ago Alberta Education would have agreed to build the school—its own recent study supports the plan.

The new Drayton Valley municipality proposal has certainly delayed the school plan.

As the local MLA and a member of Alberta's governing party Cripps should be fighting to keep the Drayton Valley proposal from interfering with the Wetaskiwin-Pendryl high school plan.

Instead, she is saying small high schools are better and a second vote on the new municipality's proposal is needed despite the fact local voters have already defeated it once.

MLA Shirley Cripps may say she does not oppose the wishes of her Wetaskiwin county constituents but her actions say otherwise.

Coding is not shelf life

An Alberta Agriculture food specialist says consumers who see milk cartons sitting on supermarkets shelves in order to the shelf life of the product.

Suzanne Penhold food and nutrition specialist in Airdrie says some people have assumed that coding, such as C1, C2 and C3 represents the number of times the milk has been pasteurized to extend the shelf life.

In a recent edition of the Food and Nutrition Matters newsletter Penhold clarified the coding. She says the C1,2,3 numbers refer to different milk production units and has nothing to do with shelf life.

Consumers should follow the regular shelf life advisory which is usually found on the top seal of each milk carton. Penhold says no milk remains on the shelf beyond the pull date on the carton.

Safe too heavy

Keytone Cops in Stony Plain...

An attempted robbery ressembling something out of the Keystone Cops has a man behind bars for two years.

Police report that after breaking into the Stony Plain IGA store through the roof Aug. 10, two men tried to steal the store's heavy safe.

A hydraulic lifter was used to carry the safe to a waiting vehicle but the safe proved too heavy to load inside.

Instead, the pair tied the object to the back of their vehicle and dragged it along a road for three miles before abandoning it, unopened on the roadside.

John Wesley Woods, 27, was given two years less a day for break, enter and theft in Stony Plain.

Woods also received a month concurrent for marijuana possession after police seized a small quantity of the drug in a Spruce Grove apartment, Sept. 17.

Host to visitors from around the world

Edmonton will be site of Winter Cities Showcase '88

Taking an Alberta Break can mean visiting an international winter wonderland. An outdoor display of Chinese ice lantern sculptures, a week of Japanese festivities, an international trade show and a winter fashion show – all of them will be waiting in Edmonton.

From Feb. 13 to Feb. 19, Edmonton is host to visitors from around the world – around the top of the world, that is. It's Winter Cities Showcase '88 and 45 winter cities and 12 countries are represented: China, Japan, Norway, West Germany, Yugoslavia, Austria, Finland, France, Sweden, the USSR, the United States and, from the other end of the earth, New Zealand.

Showcase '88 is really three conferences in one. Part one is the Third Winter Cities Conference of Mayors, where leaders of winter cities gather to discuss their common challenges. Then there's Forum '88, a symposium on winter city business trends and opportunities. Finally, there's Expo/Action '88, a trade fair of items designed for a cold climate, taking place in the Edmonton Convention Centre.

For the first time ever, Chinese ice sculptors have brought their ancient craft to North America. As part of the Edmonton Winter Cities Showcase '88, more than 40 artisans from Harbin, China, Edmonton's twin city, are creating a magnificent display of ice and light, the Ice Lantern Festival.

Sponsored by Labatt's, Late the Ice Lantern Festival is the cultural centre piece of the Winter Cities Showcase. The sculptures will be displayed in a specially designed tent beside West Edmonton Mall. The festival will open on Feb. 5 and will be open daily until March 6.

The festival is divided in to five sections, each portraying life during different seasons of the year. Harmonizing with the water works are non ice figures of dragons, panda, red cranes, and flying fairies. The focal point of the displays is a 80 foot (24 pagoda. It is colored lights by night into its walls. Using more than 2 million pounds of ice, the artisans will take about 10 days to complete their work.

From Feb. 11 - Feb. 20 there will be a festival of Japanese film at the Edmonton Art Gallery, featuring the works of such noted directors as Ozu and Kurosawa. The world famous Kodo Drum Group will give two shows, the first Feb. 13 at the McLab Theatre, the second Feb. 20 at the West Edmonton Mall Jet Palace. On Feb. 19 Edmonton will be treated to an outstanding performance of Noh theatre, a 600 year old art form. The Noh troupe is led by Hisataka Honma, Japan's greatest Noh actor. The Japanese government has named him a living cultural treasure. The Noh troupe performs its unique blend of folk and classical Japanese dance Feb. 26 at the Horizon Stage Theatre in Spruce Grove and Feb. 27 at Noh Theatre. Both shows begin at 8 p.m.

Evaluating nutrition information

Alberta DISTRICT HOME ECONOMIST By Bev Brinks

These days as consumers we are bombarded with diet and nutrition information. Each book company or product seems to be the best. It is therefore becoming more and more important to learn about good nutrition. Bookstores and libraries are overflowing with books providing nutrition information and diet advice. Before you read, be sure you select reliable nutrition information.

The Alberta Registered Dietitians Association has come up with some guidelines to consider when deciding whether a book or publication will provide sound nutrition information.

Consider a publication unreliable if it

- makes statements without supporting data to support them
- misinterprets well-known nutrition facts
- recommends a "miracle" wonder food or secret formula as the key to better health
- claims certain foods or diets cure diseases which have no known simple remedy according to the majority of health specialists
- recommends that food grown without fertilizers or pesticides is nutritionally superior to that grown by modern agricultural methods
- claims that food processing is the prime cause of our present health problems
- claims that chemicals added to foods or preserving our food supply
- offers secret information claimed to be suppressed by health professionals
- advocates the elimination of one of the four food groups from Canada food guide promises quick sure ways to lose weight, gain beauty, youth or vitality.

Guidelines for selecting reliable books on nutrition:

- a recent date of publication due to rapid research development and changes in the field of nutrition
- check author's credentials
- a logical, unemotional factual writing style and an overall

Nowadays just about everyone is conscious of the relationship between good health and sound nutrition. It is up to you to become informed. A place to start is to understand the use Canada's Food Guide. From there research specific areas that you are interested in or concerned about. I have a lot of information available here. Give me a call at 542-5xxx with your questions or comments.

Drivers' eye severely injured

On Tuesday, Jan. 12, a Texaco vehicle was en route to Cynthia area on Highway 621.

Just before the Pembina River bridge, a beer bottle was thrown from an oncoming vehicle and smashed through the windshield of the Texaco truck. Glass shattered and the driver of the Texaco truck received extremely serious injuries to his eyes.

"How To Turn Opportunity Into Enterprise"

Opportunity
By 1979 the Grover brothers Ray and Ric had noticed eight year long lull in printing company activity Alberta They were sure they had the experience and drive to do it themselves better

Challenge
To start their own label manufacturing firm they needed [illegible] a press hire a pressman and find financing

Solution
They went to the Alberta Opportunity Company and AOC agreed their idea sound! What started as a three person operation today employs twenty two making labels for companies across Western Canada When Chromalo expanded in 1985 and again in 1986 AOC was there to help again

The Grovers with their employees at their Chromalo Label Manufacturing plant in Edmonton serves clients across the West from Ravi Grover President and brother Ric

Tax tips

My wife receives family allowances for our child. Her net income is $23,806 and mine is $28,131. Which of us may report the family allowance payments and who may claim the exemptions and credit for our child?

Family allowance payments must be reported by the person claiming the exemption for a dependent child even if some other person received the payments.

The deductions and exemption claimed by each of you may differ, so that rather than you may end up with the higher net income. Therefore you should determine which of you will be able to report a deduction or credit by claiming the exemption for your child. That person should then report the family allowance payments received from the federal government.

A copy of the T5A(Z) Statement of Family Allowances must be mailed with the tax return.

If each of you is claiming part of the exemption for a child, you must each report the family allowances in that same proportion. However only the person – usually the mother – who is entitled to receive the family allowances in January can claim the tax credit for your child.

My wife's only income is $1,685 for dividends received from a Canadian corporation. This income keeps me from claiming the married exemption. Since she will not have to pay any income tax, does she have to declare this income?

The Income Tax Act permits you to report this dividend income on your own tax return rather than your wife reporting it on hers.

That way you can take full advantage of the married exemption as well as the deduction for dividend income. Your wife should not send any part of this income on her tax return. For further details refer to your General tax guide.

Do I have to report all the tips I have earned in the restaurant where I work?

Tips are taxable income and must be reported on your tax return.

What Ever Happened to our Golden Girl?

Diane Jones Konihowski was Canada's reigning pentathlete and hope for Olympic gold. In 1976, she fell short of that glory in Montreal. In 1978, she captured the gold at the Edmonton Commonwealth Games and was ranked the world's best pentathlete. Then the 1980 Moscow boycott ended her Olympic dream.

DIANE JONES KONIHOWSKI ON ATHLETICS: I've dealt with success and many, many failures. I blew it in Montreal. I choked. But I picked myself up and became better because of it. "A coach can want an athlete to be the best — and make all the opportunities available — but it's up to the person to make it work. The individual has to take the initiative." "We were told we couldn't go to Moscow. I was devastated. Four more years until Los Angeles. Can I do it? Do I want to? I couldn't put off reality any longer. I wanted a career. DIANE JONES KONIHOWSKI ON CAREERS: "I was already a teacher. So I put those skills to use as a radio commentator. You struggle at first. But you learn and you get better. I covered the sports that never got covered — like archery and table-tennis. That got me interested in developing them. It led to my job as an administrator with the Alberta Sport Council." "We're trying to get as many Albertans on Canada's 1988 Olympic team as possible. Who knows, maybe next year I'll be doing something completely different." "Some athletes specialize in one sport by the age of 10. I didn't choose to be a pentathlete until I was 21. You've got to be open to new experiences. Learn to adapt. Stay flexible."

DIANE JONES KONIHOWSKI ON INITIATIVE: "You have to look for opportunities. If I lost my job today, I'd go out and do anything I could. I've proven to people that I can learn new skills." "You've got to be open to change. It doesn't matter if you're an athlete striving to be number one, or a clerk who wants to be a vice-president — initiative and a desire to adapt can make it happen."

ALBERTA CAREER DEVELOPMENT AND EMPLOYMENT ON DIANE JONES KONIHOWSKI: Diane's attitude keeps her competitive in today's changing workplace. Because of a dynamic world economy and rapid technological advances, a person is likely to undergo at least four complete occupation changes and have up to 15 jobs. Today's workplace also offers employers and employees more challenges and more opportunities than ever before. We're here to help with training, counselling and job creation programs.

Wedding day details

It's often little things that are forgotten and cause wrinkles on a perfect wedding day. Take care of the details.

• If any fees are to be paid on the wedding day find out in advance exactly how much will be owing and get a cheque or a marked envelope. Then ask someone trustworthy who won't be busy as a member of the wedding party to make sure everyone is paid at the proper time.

• Assign someone to take some children in the wedding party to a seat should they start to disrupt the ceremony.

• Make sure the clergyman for the service and the master of ceremonies at the reception know how to pronounce the names properly.

• Have a checklist ready at rehearsals and be sure everyone knows what time and what to wear for it. Write it down or they won't.

• Arrange duties and times of special dances well before the wedding day. Be sure the musicians or disc jockey can fulfill your requests.

• Reserve seats for special people – at church, guests, spouses or escorts of the attendants, friends and family who have helped before and during the wedding.

• Ask someone to keep a record of gifts as they arrive to help prompt thank you notes and also to see that they will be prompt and at hand when needed. Never assume that people know you've received their gift. Write a thank you note as soon as you can.

• Your nerves and hands will probably sweat during the excitement. Don't panic if your ring doesn't fit. Rings shows a habit of larger than normal and break them in before the wedding day.

Say 'I love you' with gold

Classic gold? It's the perfect way to say "I love you."

From bracelets to brooches, cuff links to charms, the gift of gold is one of timeless beauty.

Possibilities for the groom include a brilliant band of diamonds and rubies...a unique alternative to a traditional wedding ring, gold cuff links and tie tacks, a stylish watch or engrave a gold paper cup style money holder with your wedding date.

For the bride, Capton has attention with a unique fan shaped pin decorated with diamonds and pearls, or a gold hand set with diamonds and rubies. And what better time to surprise her with a gold watch? Or send her with an unusual necklace adorned with miniature hands and pearls, a golden bracelet with diamond studded hearts, or a set of bangles bejewelled with gold and pearls.

ARTS AND CRAFTS

Congratulations to all those getting married in 1988!

As you begin your new life together, may you find much happiness.

We here at Rocky Mountain Furniture want to help you with your furniture - before you buy; here are some facts to consider - buying furniture should be an investment!

1) We sell Palliser Living Room Suites. They offer the best warranty on the market today: lifetime on the frame & springs, 1 year on the poly cushioning, 1 year on fabric.

2) We sell Regal Bedding. The Royalty Classic II line of box spring & mattresses come with a 20 year warranty.

3) We sell Plush Quilt by Quality Bedding. The Plush Quilt line of box spring mattresses come with a 50 year warranty.

4) Did you know that if you buy all wood products (dining room suites, bedroom suites, etc.) they increase in value with age, if properly maintained. The initial cost is more but, you more than get your value back over the years.

5) We offer Inglis Appliances. Inglis Home Appliances carry an easy-to-read, easy-to-understand warranty.

6) We sell General Freezers. General offers one of the best warranties: 1 year on all components, 5 years on the compressor. (The compressor warranty also includes a $150.00 food voucher.)

7) We sell only Sharp Microwaves. They cost a little more but are rated in the top three by Canadian Consumer Report.

No marriage involves just two people

Second weddings traditionally have been small, informal affairs with little fanfare

But with the rising divorce rate (40 per cent of Canadian marriages will end in divorce, according to the latest Statistics Canada findings), second weddings are coming into their own

Couples marrying for the second time are older usually feel wiser and believe that a mature choice publicly marking the triumph of hope over experience, merits a celebration great to none

Although wedding etiquette books attempt to regulate otherwise, second weddings are truly ad hoc affairs where no rules apply

As such, they can be relaxed joyful celebrations unconstrained by the anxious formalities of many first weddings.

Many second time brides choose an ivory or cream colored dress to symbolize the fresh start that a wedding marks Many even wear a formal wedding dress, especially if they missed out on a big wedding the first time, or if they're young, or if it's the groom's first marriage and the bride doesn't want him to feel somehow cheated.

Veils are off limits, however as they denote virginity in a rather doctrinaire way.

If there are children from a first marriage and the affection that the couple feels for each other is shared by them (and they are at least five years old), it is particularly meaningful for them to stand with the bride and groom while they make their vows

As wise grandmothers have always said, no marriage involves only two people; our families and our pasts are always present When our past includes children, having them participate in the ceremony is a moving testimony to the truth that they may be almost as intimately involved with the vows exchanged as the couple themselves.

Take the time to plan

Your wedding day can run like a charm if you take the time to make up your itinerary beforehand

Plan your day from start till finish Write everything down in proper sequence and, if possible, appoint a close friend to make sure you get to the church on time without forgetting anything

This same friend might act as prompter at the reception if a hostess or maitre d' is not supplied by the hall or hotel. (The hostess or maitre d' takes care of reception details from the organization of the receiving line to the last dance and final goodbye)

Your best man or master of ceremonies could also carry out these functions very nicely

Prior to your wedding day:

Appoint a close friend or relative who is not involved in the bridal party to act as runner on your wedding day (there are all sorts of last minute errands to be done) This saves panic

Organize cars and drivers for bridal party members — both from home to church and from church to reception. Make a list of who rides with whom — it will save confusion and guarantee that everyone is looked after

From church to reception:

- The bride and groom are driven by a friend or relative (or chauffeur)
- Members of the bridal party follow in a sufficient number of cars to accommodate them without crowding
- The bride's parents ride together to the reception. (In the event that parents are separated or divorced transportation arrangements should be made which will cause the least discomfiture.)

From home to church:

- The bride rides with her father They are driven by a friend or relative (or chauffeur).
- The bridesmaids need room for their dresses, so allow enough cars that they need not be crowded
- The bride's mother and maid of honor are driven by a close relative or friend (or chauffeur)

Announcements

Announcements are sent to those friends and relatives who could not be invited to the wedding They need no acknowledgement, nor do they require the recipient to send a gift The announcements should be ready to be mailed the day of the wedding, following the ceremony

A stitch in time

The bride and groom are exchanging vows when a loud rip tears the moment

The maid of honor has stepped on the bride's train (The wedding is torn and the headpiece begins to slide askew

The maid of honor is mortified and the bride is tearful but the officiant unfazed, pronounces the couple husband and wife

The groom takes his bride's arm with one hand, holds the headpiece with the other and joyfully they walk down the aisle

The bride's mother takes a little sewing card and a few extra bobby pins from her purse She and the bride head for the powder room and 10 minutes later the receiving line begins as if nothing happened

Moral Never leave home for your daughter's wedding without a needle, thread and a variety of pins

Wedding etiquette

I have lots of nieces and nephews from newborn to 10 years of age I don't want babies crying through my ceremony nor do I want parents walking in and out of the church What do you think is the youngest age for children to attend a wedding?

Youngsters under five become restless. If possible, make that your minimum age Make no exceptions and tell parents with younger children ahead of time that there will be no little ones attending so they can make provisions for a sitter

I'm from a small town where alcohol is the rule at weddings and my parents definitely want this at the reception. My fiance's family does not drink. What can I do to make them feel comfortable and still please my parents?

Have an open bar for your family and their friends who expect it. Also offer non-alcoholic punch and/or plenty of soft drinks for your fiance's family and friends

The wedding gown I like is in a very light pink with a matching veil However, my sister told me that only people who marry for a second time wear pink wedding dresses. Is she right?

Certainly not Pale peach and pink dresses are very much in demand today for first time brides In fact some of the most beautiful new bridal designs are in those shades

Weddings are times of joy And new beginnings with fine photographs we will capture the Special Moments of your Wedding Day.

The right gown for your figure

Most brides have a dream wedding dress. But is it the gown for you?

• An open neckline will maximize an ample bosom if the dress is cut low enough. Veils are extra weight on top such as neck ruffles put full sleeves and empire lines.

• A small waisted woman can carry off lots of fabric details in lines. Sweetheart neck ruffles and off the shoulder styles.

• A thick middle section can be shammed with gowns that have no definition at the waist. Shirt tailing princess lines, mermaid looks and gowns with extender, or V shaped bodices work well.

• Large hips are easier concealed in full hoop skirts or tapered layers. But avoid lines that cut across the widdle of the gear and watch out for big back bustles or bows.

• Tall brides need a wide band, not a narrow bound ornamented belt, to help cut their height. A dropped waistline is another good choice.

• Petite brides should steer from large ruffles and frills in proportion to their size. Any lines that are vertical will add height.

• A woman who is too big should choose a gown with moderate fullness. High necklines and long sleeves will prevent a scrawny appearance. Soft flowing lines and ruffled details conceal an angular body.

• Extra pounds can be hidden by gowns that are full through the front and back, rather than through the sides. Avoid overloading with beads, lace, ruffles and other ornamentation. Simple, clean lines are best.

Rod Schultz and Maureen Klassen along with the rest of the staff at Venture Realty congratulate you on your new life together. They offer you their services in finding that perfect home, keeping your feelings, budget and thoughts in mind.

Goof-proof your honeymoon

Advance preparation and attention to detail doesn't stop with the wedding.

It applies to the honeymoon as well. Here are some tips to help assure a hassle free trip. Make a checklist of crucial items you must take with you.

And mark off each item as you pack it. Be sure to include the obvious items such as your airline tickets, passports, travelers cheques and hotel confirmations.

If you're flying, take a carry-on bag with the essentials. That way, if your luggage goes astray you can rope somewhat gracefully. Remember that "essentials" for honeymooners include bathing suits, so you can head to the beach or pool soon after you arrive at the resort.

Best of all, don't check any luggage. To avoid airport delays, many frequent fliers only travel with a hanging garment bag and a carry on, both of which you can usually stow in the airplane cabin.

If you're driving a long distance, use a car with a trunk. That way, you can lock up your luggage out of sight.

Be careful of the sun. You want a tan, not a burn. The rays are much stronger in the tropics than they are back home, so you'll burn more quickly. Always start with a protective lotion that has an SPF 8 sun protection factor of at least 8.

Make sure your wedding rings fit snugly. When you go swimming, your fingers tend to shrink a bit. You don't want your new ring falling off while you snorkel along some coral reef.

Music to the ears

Be sure the musicians play a variety of selections from different eras and that the pace is balanced so everyone can enjoy dancing during the reception.

Also be certain you've heard the musicians, know they play well and that your contract specifically states the group you hired will indeed appear.

One couple we know was astonished when they entered their reception to the beat of a '60s rock band that were just mediocre replacements for the more conservative group they had chosen.

Occasionally the bride and groom do not want to dance. If they opt to omit the traditional first dance it should be announced the guests are invited to begin dancing.

Invitations

Your invitation sets the stage for your wedding. It says a lot about you — the kind of person you are, the kind of theme you like, whether you're traditional or taste conscious. Select your invitations with care.

The bride's parents traditionally issue the invitations even if the bride no longer lives at home.

If parents are divorced the parent with whom the bride is living issues the invitations.

Today many couples choose to issue the invitations themselves.

The groom's parents and members of the wedding party also have invitations to issue.

Expenses for corporate parties can either be billed to the company or mailed to each member of the bridal party.

Who pays for what?

There are no absolute rules on who pays for what. Traditionally, the wedding expenses have been borne primarily by the bride's family with the groom responsible for the rings and honeymoon.

While tradition is still a honored part of our heritage, financial obligations must often be worked out to everyone's advantage and compromise. The following list indicates the traditional assumption of expenses.

However, the final arbiter of who pays for what at a wedding should rest upon those most willing and able to pay.

The Bride

1. The wedding ring for the groom if it's a double ring ceremony
2. A wedding gift for the groom
3. Presents for the bridal attendants
4. Personal stationery
5. Accommodations for her out of town guests
6. Physical examination blood test

The Groom's

1. The bride's rings
2. Wedding gift for the bride
3. The marriage license
4. Gifts for best man and ushers
5. Flowers: bride's bouquet and going away corsage; corsages for mothers; boutonnieres for the men in the wedding party
6. Accommodations for out of town ushers or best man
7. His blood test
8. Gloves, ties or ascots for the men in the wedding party.
9. Fee for the clergy
10. The honeymoon
11. Optional Bachelor dinner

The Bride's Family

1. The entire cost of the reception: rental of hall if the reception is not held at home; caterer; food including wedding cake; beverages; gratuities for the bartenders and waiters; decorations; music; flowers
2. A wedding gift for the newlyweds
3. Bride's wedding attire; trousseau
4. The wedding invitations announcements and thank you cards
5. The fee for engagement and wedding photographs
6. Ceremony rental of candelabra; fees for organist, soloist or choir and sexton often included in charge for premises but if this is free these people have set fees; aisle carpets and/or canopy and any other additional costs for decorations
7. Bridesmaids' bouquets
8. Transportation for bridal party from the bride's house to the ceremony and from ceremony to reception
9. Bridesmaids luncheon
10. Optional Rehearsal dinner
11. Optional Household furnishings from linens, china, silver, flatware and crystal to furniture

The Groom's Family

1. Clothes for the wedding
2. Any travelling expenses and hotel bills they incur
3. Wedding gift for bride and groom
4. Optional: The rehearsal dinner or other expenses they elect to assume

The Guests

1. Their wedding clothes
2. Any travelling expenses they incur.
3. Wedding gift for the couple.

The Attendants

1. Any travelling expenses and hotel bills they incur
2. Wedding gift for the couple

At the time the wedding is being planned, both sets of parents — along with the engaged couple — may wish to meet to discuss the financial arrangements. It is wise for all parties to make any financial matters absolutely clear to prevent misunderstandings or hard feelings after definite plans have been made.

If the parents of the groom wish to share the wedding expenses, they may offer to do so.

Suits are more than ties and tails

Once you've decided what style wedding you want, and have chosen your wedding dress, it's time to consider the outfits worn by your attendants.

You'll want to be sure the style of your wedding party wear sets the mood and covers a price that you're trying to keep.

Today there's a wide variety of men's formalwear to choose from, ranging from white tie to casual chic. Men's formal wear is more versatile than ever. Mix and match to create the atmosphere you want at your wedding, whether it's high drama or simple elegance.

The traditional ensemble for formal ceremonies is the black tailcoat and white tie. A trendy, creative option is the double-breasted white dinner jacket with black trousers, white wing collared shirt and black cummerbund, shawl lapel bow tie.

For semi-formal affairs, black tuxedos and grey stroller suits are always been popular favorites. But why not try a white tuxedo for striking new pastel or vivid shades, or bring fun and casualness to the wedding and reception with a variety of sport coats and trousers.

Let the wedding and bridesmaids dresses guide you in your choice of men's formalwear to be ordered well in advance. Make an appointment with your local rental specialist. He'll suggest a time schedule for fittings and will be able to help you make selections to suit your special occasion.

Tom Mefore shows off one of the many tuxes offered by his store. With their personal touch, quality, colors and care offered the groom can put his confidence and trust in finding the best for that special day.

Principles of protocol

Today's wedding books devote a lot of ink to decreeing do's and don'ts to fit the mind boggling number of permutations and combinations that occur when the parents of the bride or groom are divorced.

Different rules apply depending on which parent the bride or groom lives with, which parent is paying for the reception, whether one, both or neither parent has remarried and how happy or strained relations are all around.

Keep in mind that the best etiquette is always what you are most comfortable with. Each divorce situation is different. There is no "right" or "wrong" way.

As a general guideline however, the protocol observed by the Princess of Wales's divorced remarried parents at her wedding could be used as a model.

Diana was led down the aisle on her father's arm and he gave her away. Her mother and father stood in the receiving line and appeared in the official wedding party photographs. Their new spouses played no official role as hosts.

Did you know that...

• Every year, almost 100,000 Canadians are married

• The average age of first marriages for women is 23 for men 25

• The most popular month in which to get married is August, with July a close second followed by June and May

• The least popular month in which to get married is January followed by March and February

• The Yukon has the highest marriage rate in Canada with Alberta a close second

• The Northwest Territories has the lowest marriage rate in Canada, with Quebec a close second

• Weddings are big business. An estimated $11.5 billion is spent in Canada each year on weddings

The average wedding costs $4,460 with an additional $5,800 spent on gifts for the newlyweds, their honeymoon and setting up a home

Newlyweds spend 15 times more annually than the average family. In their first year of marriage, they spend more than at any other period of their life together

Chris Kreisperis' Caesar's Inn looks over the hotel's indoor swimming pool. Caesar's places a special premium on ensuring wedding celebrations are more than memorable. The inn comes complete with licensed dining room, whirlpool, sauna and swimming pool.

Kelly's Flower Garden offers the necessary creativity to provide wedding ceremonies with carefully selected flower arrangements that relate to one's own personality.

Master of ceremony

1. Immediately prior to the meal when guests and wedding parties are at tables and upon the person who is to ask the blessing, the master of ceremonies (MC) stands and requests attention and announces the cutting of the cake. Lead in applause.
2. After the meal course is removed or after the dessert which is the bride's choice) and coffee and guests' attention and again announces the cutting of the cake. Lead in applause.
3. Introduce the person who is to propose the toast to the bride and/or groom (sister, friend or relative).

This usually is one of the highlights of the reception. The master of ceremonies should be made aware of when the toasts are to take place so that he can have the glasses filled and ready.

Following the toast the groom stands without introduction and responds. He then proposes a toast to the bride's mother.

If the mothers are to be toasted:

4. Introduce the person who is to give the toast to the bride's mother (usually a good friend of the bride's father) as specified automatically without introduction.
5. Introduce the person who is to give the toast to the groom's mother.

The groom's father responds automatically without introduction to this toast.

6. Read any telegrams received and announce any special guests.
7. Invite guests to participate in the reception.

Bridal outfit

The bride's white dress symbolizes her innocence and scares away the evil spirits who are frightened by the pure color.

The bride should not see herself in a full length mirror before the wedding but if she wants to check her appearance she can leave a button undone or her shoe off so she's not all ready. But it's good luck for the bride and groom to admire themselves in their wedding outfits after the ceremony.

To the Mother of the Groom

Look back. He is no stranger, this tall man
Who stands before you, eyes upon his bride.
Remember all the growing years that one
Big one you shared? How jacko'-lantern wide
His grin was every time he offered what
He hoped would please — a small triumphant fist
Of dandelions, a crooked cone that not Quite matched the one he'd broken — oh, the list
Of gifts is long! Today,
though, understand
His giving does not end with this new life
Of his. He gives you joy in his joy, and
He gives you someone else to love — his wife.

To make every day as special as your wedding, Block's can help you with those first home-cooked dinners and sunny morning breakfasts, by offering a wide variety of meats, fruits, and vegetables. Walking down their aisles you're a bride forever.

To the Father of the Bride

As they stroll proudly down the aisle his mind races to earlier years,

When she used to skin her knees and he wiped away the tears.

Where did those tender days go,
is she ready for a new stage of life?

And what about that earnest young man, is he ready for a wife?

This time he'll give her up for good,
not just a Saturday night.

He hopes that all her needs are met and that this bond of love is right

There's so much that she'll have to learn when the ups and downs get rough.

Like patience and forgiveness and he hopes she'll have enough.

They're almost at the end of the aisle,
it went by much too fast.

He needed hours more than this to fondly remember the past.

She's letting go of his arm now and the feeling tugs at his heart.

But he knows that even a husband's love will never replace his part.

He's done his best to let her grow and played the role of guide.

She'll be his daughter forever
so today she can be the bride

Many a Bride Has Walked Down Our Aisles!

Shortly after the wedding you should make a point to drop in at Block's. You'll find us eager to help you get off on the right foot. Regardless of whether you're a bride of a few weeks or several years, shop Block's.
